COLOR WINS

In the Struggle for Temporary Chairmanship at Chicago.

DESPERATE LUNGE AT POWELL CLAYTON,

Who Falls Under the Ballots of the Anti-Blaine Forces.

THE PROBABILITIES OF THE FIRST BALLOT.

A Movement to Rush in Gen. Sherman to the Strains of

"MARCHING THROUGH GEORGIA."

CHICAGO, June 3.—[Special.]—The first notable thing of the convention was the preaching in the opening prayer, thanking God for the republican party, and the delegates cheering the prayer. In Mr. Sabin's opening speech, the name of Grant evoked a small applause. Lincoln got three rousing rounds, and Garfield almost lifted the roof off the building. The vast audience rising to its feet, the Blaine men leading, but all classes following with hearty goodwill.

THE FIGHT OVER THE CHAIRMANSHIP.

The fight over the temporary chairmanship developed unexpected bitterness. The Arthur men sprung a neat issue in putting a negro against Clayton, who was the Blaine nominee, and insisted on a call of the roll by individual delegates. The voting developed that the field had been bunched as far as was possible against Blaine, with Logan, perhaps in sympathy with Blaine, but unable to control his followers. Pending the ballot Mr. Atkins said to me:

"This is the one weak point in Blaine's field. If we carry this I think we can carry anything. If we lose it simply means a temporary backset.

"To attempt to prejudice the colored delegates against Blaine by putting up a negro against Clayton was hatched in the reformers' nest, and fathered on the floor by George William Curtis. It was parried by the statement of a Blaine speaker that if the Edmunds men really wished to give the negro honor the Blaine men would join them in making Lynch permanent chairman of the convention.

MAHONE'S GREAT DISGRACE.

When Mahone rose to vote he was met with tumultuous applause. The delegates mounted their chairs and the air was filled with hats and handkerchiefs. It was a full minute before his vote could be heard. Southern delegates were specially enthusiastic over Mahone.

When Lynch's selection was announced three specially vindictive cheers were given from the anti-Blaine people, their feeling against Clayton being bitter because of his change from Arthur to Blaine. The sight of Clayton, a one-armed union soldier of fine presence, leading to the stage a negro by whom he had just been most signally humiliated, had almost reactionary effect against those who composed the plot. It cannot be disguised that the overthrew of Clayton, backed as he was by the national committee, is a severe blow to Blaine. Had he been elected nothing could have checked the Blaine men to-morrow. They would have run away with the convention almost without a halt.

THE BLAINE TIDE RISING.

The Blaine tide has been rising steadily since Sunday and even when the field combined against Clayton it was thought he might pull through by Blaine's strength alone, but he lacked only forty-four votes of doing so. While it shows that there are enough votes to beat Blaine if they can be combined on any one man, it shows that Blaine is or certainly has been the strongest single candidate before the convention.

A BLAINE MAN'S CONFESSION.

A prominent Blaine man said to me to-night:

"Of course we have made a mistake. We were led into the nomination of Clayton by circumstances that we could hardly control. The moment even were irrevocably committed to him, the Arthur men combined the field against us. They told the friends of the other candidates, dark horses included, that if we whipped this fight we would run over everything. Thus they massed everything against us, and when we found we could not back out honorably, we made the best fight we could."

"What effect will the defeat have on to-morrow?"

"It will hurt us. If we had whipped it, the rest would have been easy. Had we kept out of it, we might have trapped Arthur as he has trapped us. It has had the effect, however, of disrupting our force and getting them in fighting trim. They are courageous and more determined to fight than ever. The appointment can never unite the Lynch vote on any candidate before the convention. They could mass it against Blaine as they could have massed it against any leader in a preliminary skirmish. But when they try to carry them from one candidate to another we will catch them on the fly."

THE BLAINE ESTIMATE TO-NIGHT.

I am unable to give the exact estimate of the Blaine managers to-night, based on to-day's vote. I give it exactly as they gave it to me. The following votes that went for Lynch to-day will not go for Arthur to-morrow, but will go to the candidates named:

Arkansas, 1 to Blaine.
Connecticut, 6 to Hawley.
Illinois, 14 to Logan.
Iowa, 2 to Blaine.
Massachusetts, 24 to Edmunds.
Michigan, 6 to Edmunds.
Minnesota, 3 to Sherman.
Missouri, 10 to Wm. T. Sherman.
New Hampshire, 8 to Edmunds.
New York, 15 to Edmunds.
Ohio, 23 to Sherman.
Rhode Island, 8 to Edmunds.
Vermont, 8 to Edmunds.
Wisconsin, 6 to Fairchilds—total, 134.

Take this from the Lynch votes 430 and you have 296. This gives the Arthur vote out of the Lynch vote. Now add to it from Clayton's vote, Mississippi 1 and Florida 4 and you have Arthur's vote 301. Now Blaine will lose of the Clayton vote.

Connecticut 6 for Hawley.
Illinois 25 for Logan.
Florida 4 for Arthur.
Missouri 4 for Sherman.
Mississippi 1 for Arthur.

This is forty votes which deduct from Clayton's vote, and you have 348 as Blaine's vote out of Clayton's. Add Iowa 2 and Arkansas 1, you have 357 as Blaine's vote. We expect to add to this Michigan 2.

New Mexico 1.
Idaho 1.
Kansas 4.
New York 2.
Wisconsin 1,

Or 12 in all. This gives Blaine 369 on say the second ballot, which all the candidates in the field as they drop out will catch th balance of what he need.

A MOVEMENT FOR GENERAL SHERMAN.

I found the disturbing element in the Blaine headquarters to-night. "General William T. Sherman," said one of the managers of the movement, "is being desperately worked to-night, and great enthusiasm is being raised." The bands are practicing on "Marching Through Georgia," and you'll see things hum here about to-morrow night, if I am not mistaken. Arthur is out of the race. Edmunds has never been in it. Logan is a dead cock, and you cannot enthuse the convention over John Sherman, or Gresham, or Lincoln. If it is not Blaine, look out for General Sherman."

Thus spoke Blaine's leading manager an hour ago. The Arthur men are jubilant to-night, but are not betting on their candidate much. They prefer to bet on beating Blaine to betting on electing Arthur. Whatever Blaine may have suffered in the convention he is king of the city to-night. The city is one blaze of light and music fills the air. When a club enters one of the hotels the crowd looks for the name on the banner. If its "Blaine" the music is shut out with the roof-lifting yells. If it bears any other name the music has all the chance it wants. The scene and the enthusiasm over the Blaine men are simply indescribable. I just heard an Ohio delegate say to Colonel Farrow:

"You may beat Blaine with your little bread-and-butter brigade, but if you do I'll be d—d if you don't have to elect your man without Ohio's help."

I like that Ohio man. H. W. G.

THE DAY'S DEVELOPMENTS.

Depress the Blaine Men and Enthuse the Arthur Forces.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—The situation to-night is changed considerable since the day's developments. Men who were most enthusiastic last night for Blaine are now losing his nomination on contingencies. Those who speculated last night on Arthur, flushed now with the victory of a day, claim his nomination as a certainty. It can't be denied that the forces of Blaine have been considerably worsted and are much annoyed. The action of the convention in refusing to accept the nominee of its executive committee for the temporary chairmanship is unprecedented, and has excited much comment. The cause is obvious.

WHY CLAYTON WAS REJECTED.

Clayton, who was named by the committee, was elected from Arkansas as an Arthur man, and was counted on strongly to support him. He comes to Chicago and suddenly is an enthusiastic convert to the Blainites.

It's next announced that he has been awarded the temporary chairmanship by the committee, and the reason of his sudden tumble soon became evident, the Arthur men claiming it was a palpable case of "you tickle me." Anyway the forces of Blaine rallied to his standard, and soon as those of Arthur and the field determined to defeat him. The lines were drawn last night, and until the ballot the battle waged vigorously, the result being the route of the forces of the plumed knight. Steve French, who is Arthur's intimate friend and one of his managers here, can scarcely hold himself to-night, and his New York friends are equally as happy. I heard him say to-day what it would certainly result in Arthur's nomination, and that it would probably occur on the third ballot.

ARTHUR CANNOT BE NOMINATED.

Among his disinterested observers though the opinion is greatly different, Arthur can't be nominated. The forces that voted with him to-day to defeat the first Blaine movement, will desert him to-morrow equally as quickly if the indications were to turn favorable to him. The Edmunds men are determined that they will fight Blaine and ally themselves with those of Arthur and Sherman to prevent his slightest success, but when the time comes to drop their man they will never turn to Arthur.

THE GEORGIA DELEGATION.

The Georgia delegation voted to-day solidly for Lynch. They have been in a big muss to-day among themselves. It seems that Forsyth, of Rome, is sick and could not attend as a delegate. Instead of telling his alternate to serve he commissioned Collins, of Cartersville, to act in his place. His dusky alternate is there in force and demands his seat. Collins's credentials were made out this morning in the delegation, but I understand the action will be reversed to-night. Buck championed Collins and Pledger the alternate, and the latter claims that he will carry it to the convention if Buck don't give in. The negro is undisputably on top here and his demands must be met at all hazards. Several of the southern delegates are stopping at the Palmer house. About two-thirds of the number are negroes, and they are accompanied by their sisters and their cousins and their aunts. Their diamond pins are particularly brilliant in the dining rooms, where they are accompanied in droves by other watchful and eager delegates. They hold the balance of power here, and could as easily elect a permanent chairman as a temporary one if they only demand it.

WILD LIKE TO DROP THE NEGRO.

A prominent Blaine supporter said to me to-day that he had become thoroughly disgusted with their hold on the party, and thought that the next convention would adopt the Frye suggestion as to the election of delegates, that is, pro rata with the republican vote of a state. Had this been observed this time Blaine would have been overwhelmingly nominated. The Blaine forces are hard at work to-night, and claim that they have not been injured. It is stimulating them to harder work, and no stone is being left unturned to-night. The chances still favor his nomination, and if not him, then Sherman, Ben Harrison declined to run last night, but he is announced again this morning. Of all the candidates, he is the only one any where near Chicago, but he is here fretting himself to death to get the lightning to strike him. He is being ridiculed, and stands not the ghost of a show. He and Gresham, both of Indiana, are trying to cut each other's throat, and have only succeeded in killing themselves.

IN AWE OF TILDEN.

A remarkable thing about this convention is the awe in which it stands of Tilden. His name creates almost a panic, and there is not a man suggested as a candidate but what his chances are compared with those of Tilden. They fear him as they fear no other democrat, and Blaine's supporters declare that he is the only man that stands a chance against Tilden. If Blaine is nominated it will be largely owing to the stand the Pacific coast delegation have taken for him. They have been his most ardent supporters, and hundreds are here working for him. They declare that, unless he is nominated, Tilden or any good democrat will sweep the coast states. A lively fight is expected to-morrow on the Virginia delegates. The traitor, Mahone, is here in power, and is enthusiastically received. He will be undoubtedly seated. Altogether the prospect is bright for the democracy. The shallowness and hypocrisy of this convention is as evident as the corruption of their administration. It is a scramble for offices and any means are resorted to. Honest men are downed and villians fostered where policy is served, as has been shown several times to-day. Blaine's forces are indignant, but are fighting to win and may do so yet. A ballot will probably be reached to-day. C. H.

THE FIGHT AGAINST CLAYTON.

A Storm Brewed up Against an Arkansas Scalawag.

CHICAGO, June 3.—There was much excitement last night over the selection of Powell Clayton as temporary chairman of the convention. This feeling is confined mostly to the delegates opposed to Mr. Blaine, but there are a number of Blaine's adherents who express dissatisfaction of the choice of the national committee. So intense, indeed, is the feeling on the subject that a plan is on foot to attempt to defeat Clayton in the convention and elect Hon. B. M. Bruce, colored, register of the United States treasury, in his stead. The feeling in some quarters is exceedingly bitter, and that a strong effort will be made to compass Clayton's defeat seems very likely.

The Arthur men have determined to stand firmly by their candidate to the last, and will make no combinations looking to the selection of any other man. They say this is their firm purpose, and if the Edmunds men and others wish to nominate Blaine, by refusing to support Arthur, they must take the responsibility.

A BOOM FOR GENERAL SHERMAN.

There has been much quiet talk about the possibility of the nomination of General Sherman. It is said a dead lock is highly probably, and that at the proper time some prominent delegate might present the name of General William Tecumseh Sherman, the band at the same time striking up "Marching Through Georgia," when the general's friends say he will get through with an enthusiasm which cannot be controlled. This has been suggested so many times as to excite considerable comment. When the question was urged that the general does not desire the nomination, and will not take it, the reply in every instance was "we know he will accept it nominated."

INDICATIONS FROM THE DELEGATIONS.

The New York delegation had a protracted and very interesting meeting, with closed doors, for the purpose of organizing last night. The meeting began at 8 o'clock, and was not concluded till after 10. The voting for delegation officers and committee men was viva voce, the tally being kept as the names were called. Geo. Wm. Curtis acted as chairman of the meeting and Speaker Sheard as secretary. There were 67 of the 72 delegates present. At the outset the Edmunds and Blaine men voted together, and having a majority elected their men. Under this combination Geo. Wm. Curtis was chosen chairman of the delegation; Thos. Connell for vice-president of the convention; Speaker Titus Sheard, of the New York assembly, for assistant secretary of the convention and E. H. Hobbs for member of the committee on credentials. Silas B. Dutcher was Hobbs's opponent for the place, but was beaten by the Edmunds-Blaine combination, but the vote was lost and Secretary Sheard could not remember how it stood. This far the Edmunds had voted persistently with the Blaine delegates and having helped to choose four of the eight officials suddenly changed around and voted with the Arthur men, that combination choosing the remaining four, which included H. G. Burleigh on the permanent organization and George A. Cohron on the rules and the order of business; William Dowd on resolutions and J. D. Lawson, a pronounced Arthur man, for member of the national committee. There was a particularly warm contest over the last, and three ballots were required to decide it. The leading candidates were Lawson, ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt and Attorney-General Leslie C. Russell. On the last vote stood, Lawson 54, Platt 23, Bessell 10, giving Lawson one majority. Speaker Sheard says the Edmunds men agreed to vote with the Blaine men throughout the list, but broke faith when Burleigh was reached. As a result of this balloting, Sheard estimates that the delegation will stand Blaine 27, Arthur 20 to 31, Edmunds 14 to 15.

At a meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation it was decided to present the name of Galusha A. Grow for permanent chairman of the convention. One of the delegates estimates the Pennsylvania vote as follows: Blaine 46, Arthur 14. Others give Arthur as high as 17.

THE COLORED HANGERS-ON.

Who Haggle Over the Form of Their Indorsement of Arthur.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The colored men's national executive committee, appointed by the Louisville convention last September, held a meeting last night. Seventy-two members were present, most of them delegates to the convention. Resolutions were passed asking the republican national convention to adopt a resolution recommending an amendment to the constitution placing all the civil rights of American citizens within the province of national legislation. A stormy time ensued over the resolution indorsing Arthur, and pledging him their support. The matter was finally compromised by the adoption of a resolution declaring that President Arthur's administration has been wise and conservative.

IN THE CONVENTION HALL.

The Interior Arrangements--How the Seats are Arranged.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The convention met at noon. The working body of the convention was the greatest in point of numbers of any national political assemblage, but occupied only a small portion of the vast auditorium hall, which is the largest and has been termed the most complete ever thrown open for the work of a vast deliberative body. It is in one sense temporary, having been constructed within the walls of the exposition building, situated on the east line of the city on the shores of Lake Michigan. Its capacity approximates 13,000. The speaker's desk rests on a platform twelve feet above the seats of the delegates, and the press occupies an intermediate space, midway in height, or about on a level with the heads of the delegates, as they occupy their chairs. Back of chairs ranged in a semi-circle and on a level space are seated the remaining officers of the convention, the members of the national committee and their immediate friends. Back of this circle on a sharply rising incline are 1,000 seats occupied by a great many persons of national repute whose presence is by the grace of the national committeemen. Swinging over the desk of the chairman and fairly touching the arches, is a widespreading sounding board, embracing the side extremes of the building. The delegates and alternates occupy a dead level space bounded by square lines. They are banned in on two sides by tiers of boxes occupied mainly by the guests of the delegates.

The section of the hall occupied by the working body of the convention is broken by four wide aisles, from the edges of which rise Roman standards, pendant with blue silk banners, imprinted in gold with the mottoes of the states and territories. Beginning on the left facing the stage is the state of Alabama, and back through the first tier, of seats follows Kansas, Colorado, Connecticut, and down through the line of states in alphabetical turn to Maine. Beginning again on the right and rear is Maryland, with Massachusetts immediately in her front, and ending with the District of Columbia, in the front row of the second tier. New York occupies the front rank, in the third and Ohio holds ranking position in the fourth and remaining tier. Back of the delegates in a similar space occupied by alternates, and separated from the main body by a hardly perceptible position, in the rear of the alternates is a commodious seating space, the chairs resting on an easy incline, and cut off from the space occupied by the alternates by a line of pickets. Beginning one hundred feet in the rear of the alternates is another dividing wall, and from that point rise tier upon tier of seats to a point almost midway between the hall and the apex of the dome, like a roof. High and narrow galleries run along the east and west sides of the hall its entire length, and seemingly suspended in mid-air. The front of this gallery is faced with the coats-of-arms of the states. On a background of festooned flags, fluttering from the arches, are the national colors and flags of all nations.

THE CORRESPONDENTS ENTER.

The first to arrive on the scene were the staff correspondents and assistants, representing the great journals of the entire country, among whom were Henry W. Grady and Clark Howell, of THE CONSTITUTION. The accommodations were ample and precautions were taken against any possibility of confusion, due mainly to the efforts of Hon. John C. New, of Indiana. They were able to find their working stations without any consequent vexation of spirit.

Before ten o'clock the main auditorium began to be sprinkled with early comers, and when the band, located in the extreme southern part of the building, burst forth with martial strains, the stream of arrivals became steady and unceasing, until the scene from the speaker's platform was that of an unbroken, undulating sea of faces relieved by the rich colors of the toilets of the ladies, who were present in force.

THE DELEGATES ARRIVING.

The first of the delegates began to arrive at 11:30 and full delegations were alotted their places before noon. The following members of the senate were present among the delegates and on the stage: Messrs. Aldrich, Blair, Hoar, Platt, Miller of New York, Miller of California, Sewell, Mahone, Palmer, Conger, Harrison, Cullom, Sabin, Plumb, Manderson, Bowen, Dolph and Jones, of Nevada. Among the representatives in congress, forming part of the delegations and among the observers of the scene were: Messrs. Boutlete, of Michigan; Dingley, of Maine; Stewart of Vermont; Rice of Massachusetts; Skinner, Burleigh and Wardsworth of New York; Wm. Walter Phelps of New Jersey; Bayne and Bingham of Pennsylvania; Holten of Maryland; Libby of Virginia; Hoar of North Carolina; Smalls of South Carolina; Jeffer of Mississippi; Kellogg of Louisiana; Houk and Pettibone of Tennessee; Ochiltree of Texas; McKinley, Robinson and Hart of Ohio; Calkins, Browne, Peel and Steele of Indiana; Thomas, Davis and Adams of Illinois; Washburn of Minnesota; Horr of Michigan; Anderson and Merrill of Kansas; and Valentine of Nebraska.

THE CALL TO ORDER.

The Fight on Clayton Scores a Defeat of Mr. Blaine.

At 12:24 the chair announced that the hour having arrived for the meeting of the eighth republican national convention, the convention would now be opened by prayer, which was offered by Rev. Frank Bristol, of Chicago.

At the conclusion of the prayer, the call for the convention was read by J. A. Martin, secretary of the national committee.

Chairman Sabin, in behalf of the republican committee, called the convention to order in its name, in a brief speech, closing with an expression of a hope for victory, and proposed for the temporary chairman Hon. Powell Clayton, of Arkansas.

THE SIGNS OF DISSENT.

When the chairman had concluded and mentioned the name of Powell Clayton, Henry Cabalt Lodge, of Massachusetts, rose and proposed the name of John R. Lynch, of Mississippi. He said they recognized the claim of the south, and therefore he had proposed this second name as one acceptable to the republican convention.

Silas B. Dutcher, of New York, seconded the nomination of Lynch.

At this point a great sensation was created by a speech from W. W. Morrow, of California. He said that harmony was essential, and it could best be secured by not raising any factional issue. It had been the practice for forty years for the national committee to select the temporary chairman of the convention, and a departure could not now be made from it without creating a bitterness of feeling.

There were several on their feet to reply, but the chairman recognized George William Curtis, of New York. The announcement was greeted with the wildest applause.

Mr. Curtis said this was a supreme council of the party. The republicans were here met to open the campaign of 1884. It had been unquestionably customary for the national committee to name the temporary chairman, and for the convention to ratify it, but if the party as here represented so desired, also unquestionably had the right to revise the action of the national committee in this matter, and make a chairman of its own choosing.

Mr. Drummond, of Maine, moved that when the vote was taken, it be by a call of the roll by states.

THE BLAINE MEN WARMING UP.

Mr. Steward, of Pennsylvania, sustained the action of the committee in the selection of Mr. Clayton, in an eloquent appeal, which was greeted with long continued applause. It was evident the Blaine men were getting warmed up, and resolved to contest every inch of ground.

Mr. Horr, of Michigan, argued that the question should be settled, not by a call of the roll, but by a call of the states. This convention could do in half an hour what it could not do in the other way in an hour and a half.

Mr. Prentiss, of Missouri, could not understand the object of the proposition to ignore the action of the national committee. A refusal to indorse that nomination would go forward as a stigma on a man who was to be honored as a citizen, soldier and statesman. Powell Clayton bore the mark of his love for the national flag.

Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, favored the motion of Mr. Lodge. It was not without precedent to set aside the action of a committee who had seats in the national committee, and the convention should not be governed in such an important matter by the action of a body of outsiders. He hoped that the vote would be taken by a call of the delegates. It was a fitting thing for the convention to select a man of its own choice, and he hoped that Lynch would be elected temporary chairman of the convention.

Mr. Carr, of Illinois, argued that the question to be considered was whether or not the action of the national committee had been wise, prudent, and in the interest of the republican party. If the national committee had failed in this, it should be set aside, otherwise it should be sustained. Was not Clayton a fit man to preside temporarily? He was known to many of them, and they were unwilling that a stigma should be placed on his great and grand name. [Applause.] By voting against the action of the national committee, they felt that it would not be proper to go before the country to sustain the candidate of a convention whose first act had been to put down a man who carried an empty sleeve. (Applause).

A delegate from South Carolina advocated the nomination of Lynch, but without meaning thereby any reflection upon Clayton as a southern representative, he wished the election of Lynch.

THE BLOODY SHIRT.

Mr. Winston, of North Carolina, supposed that the action of the national committee had no more force than a mere recommendation, and with all courtecsy to the committee he would say that he preferred somebody else. [Applause.] He honored Clayton for having served under the national flag, but there were eight million colored men in the country who deserved recognition at the hands of the convention. Captain and Dunville appealed to the nation on their behalf, and would not appeal in vain. [Applause.]

Mr. Reed, of Maryland, favored a full and free discussion of the question. He, himself, carried an empty sleeve, but he carried besides a heart true to the republican party, and he believed it to be the interests of the party to elect Lynch as its temporary chairman.

Mr. Houston, of Nebraska, expressed the idea that if it was the intention of the convention to overgurn the action of the national committee, it should not be done under the pretext which masked the real design, the pretext of recognizing the colored element.

Mr. Benjamin, of Arkansas, sustained Powell Clayton as a man who had done more than any other southern republican to elevate the republican cause in the south.

The chairman quoted approvingly, the decision of Senator Hoar in the last convention, to the effect that in the absence of any rule, the method of taking the question must be in the sound discretion of the chair, subject, of course, to the action of the convention. This was emphatically, he said, a convention of people, and every delegate had an undoubted right to a free expression of his opinion, and to have his vote recorded. [Applause].

THE ELECTION OF LYNCH.

The call of the roll of delegates was then proceeded with, when it was announced that Lynch had 433 votes, and was elected temporary chairman. A scene of the wildest confusion arose. The delegates rose in their seats, cheered, swung their hats and shouted. The spectators joined in the demonstrations. The vote was then made unanimous.

The chairman appointed Messrs. Clayton of Arkansas, Dodge of Massachusetts, and W. N. Taft of South Carolina, a committee to escort Lynch to the chair. As the committee appeared the applause was hearty, and the feeling of disappointment seemed to disappear.

Mr. Lynch made a good impression by his quiet and modest demeanor. The chairman said that he had the honor and great pleasure of presenting, to the convention as the temporary chairman Hon. John R. Lynch of Mississippi. [Cheers].

LYNCH TAKES THE CHAIR.

Mr. Lynch, in taking the chair, said:

"Gentlemen of the Convention: I feel that I ought not to say that I thank you for the distinguished honor you have conferred upon me, for I do not. Nevertheless, from the standpoint that no patriot should fail to respond to his country's call, and that no loyal member of his party should fail to comply with the demand of his party, I yield with reluctance to your decision, and assume the duties of the position to which you have assigned me. Every member of this convention who approached me on this subject within the last few hours knows that this position was neither expected nor desired by me. If there is ever any such thing as a man having honors thrust upon him, you have an exemplification of it in this instance. [Laughter and applause.] I come to this convention not for the purpose of securing the defeat of any man, or the success of any man, but for the purpose of contributing, to the extent of my vote and my influence, to make republican success in November next an assured fact. [Cheers.] I hope and believe that the assembled wisdom of the republican party of this nation, through its chosen representative in this hall, will so shape its platform, and will present such candidates before the American people as will make that victory beyond the shadow of a doubt. So far as the candidates for the presidential nomination are concerned, I do not wish any gentleman to feel that my election by your vote, is an indication of anything relative to the preference of one candidate over another. I am prepared, and I hope that every member of this convention is prepared, to return to his home with an unmistakable determination to give to the candidates of this convention a loyal and hearty support, whoever they may be. (Cheers). I am satisfied in my own mind that when we go before the people of this nation your action will be ratified, because the great heart of the American people will never consent to have a political party gain the ascendancy in this country whose chief reliance is on a fraudulent ballot and on violence at the polls. [Applause]. I am satisfied that the people of this country are too loyal ever to allow a man to be inaugurated president whose title to the position is brought forth in fraud. I am satisfied that the American people will ratify our action, because they will never consent to have a revenue system for government other than one that will not only raise the necessary revenue for its support, but will also be sufficient to protect every American citizen in his business. [Cheers]. Gentlemen, not for myself, but perhaps in obedience to custom, I thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me."

The chairman of the delegations then announced the names of the persons selected to serve on the various committees of the convention. Several memorials and resolutions were presented and appropriately referred, after which the convention at 4:45 p. m. adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow.

THE MEANING OF THE TEST.

After carefully studying the vote on the questions of the temporary chairman, it does not appear to have been really a test of strength as some delegates voted for Clayton, with a view of sustaining the action of the national committee, leaving other questions to be decided later, while others voted for Lynch with a view to its effect on the colored vote. The Blaine and Logan men, after the vote, estimated that they had greater strength than they had before supposed, while the adherents of the independents and dark horses seemed to feel satisfied with the position they held between the main contesting forces.

When the name of Senator Harrison was called, Mr. Thompson, of Indiana, announced that Mr. Harrison was absent and was represented by his alternate. When the name of George F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, was called, there was tremendous applause. He voted for Lynch. General Mahone's name heads the list of Virginia delegates. When the secretary called upon him to record his vote and the little readjuster stood up to speak, a great yell went up all over the house, and the colored delegates waved their hats and handkerchiefs frantically. Senator Mahone announced his vote for Lynch, and another boisterous demonstation was made. During the call for names of the members of the various committees, when the state of Virginia was called, Mr. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, rose and stated that there was a contest from that state and that the reception of the list of delegates presented should be refused until the committee on credentials had passed on the matter. The chair stated that he could not do otherwise than recognize the list of delegates participating in the convention until the convention had ordered differently.

MEMORIALS AND RESOLUTIONS.

The Temperance People, the Irish League and the Basis of Representation.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Henry L. Pierce, of Massachusetts, presented the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That the subject of the revised appointment of delegates to future national conventions, and of a revised appointment of members of the national committee be referred to the committee on rules and order of business with leave to report before the ballot for president."

After some discussion, the resolution was adopted.

W. G. Donnan, of Iowa, presented the memorial and petition of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union. It bears the signature of the officer of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, and reads as follows:

To the national committee of the republican party: We, members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union of the states herein represented by the signatures of our officers believe that while the personal habits of a nation be restricted by an appeal through argument to the heart; through sympathy to the conscience; through motives of religion, traffic in these persons will be best controlled by a prohibitory law. We believe the teaching of science, experience and the golden rule combine to testify against the traffic in alcoholic liquors and drink in the homes of Americans, which are the citadels of patriotism and happiness, have no enemy so relentless as the American nation. Therefore, citizens of the United States, irrespective of sect or condition, but having deeply at heart the protection of our homes, we hereby respectfully and earnestly petition you to advocate and to adopt such measures as are requisite to the end that the prohibition of the importation, exportation manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages, may become an integral part of the national constitution, and that your party candidate shall be, by character and public pledge, committed to a national prohibitory constitutional amendment.

FRANCES E. WILLARD, President.
CAROLINE B. BUELL, Corresponding Secretary.
MARY A. WOODBRIDGE, Recording Secretary.
L. M. N. Stevens, Assistant Secretary.
ESTHER PUGH, Treasurer.

The petition was read and referred to the committee on rules.

INDICATIONS OF THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

Perhaps a greater compliment was never before paid to a statesman than that yesterday conferred upon Samuel J. Tilden.

Over three-fourths of the counties elected delegates to the state convention which meets in Atlanta on the 8th instant. In seven-eighths of these counties instructions were given for Tilden; in others, where no instructions were given, the preferences of the delegates were known to be for the New York statesman; and while one or two persons, widely scattered, were found who opposed the old ticket, not a single county has taken action against it. Such unanimity is unparalleled, and such a tribute Mr. Tilden cannot fail to appreciate and accept.

The counties also, in many instances, gave some interesting expressions of opinion on the tariff, the state campaign, and other questions, all of which will be found duly chronicled.

The coroner's jury in Charlton county has brought in a verdict of wilful murder against a white man named Gay for the killing of Mr. Scott Hurst.

The Americus Recorder says that Pink Jowers, the cotton king of Webster, does not confine his industry to that staple. He brought into Americus a hundred bushels of field peas, for which he got $1.50 per bushel, and a fine Jersey calf, which he sold for $50.

Rich Daniel, a wary renegade from justice, who has been wanted in Preston for twelve months to answer for the crime of incestuous adultery with his own daughter, was captured by our sheriff, Dan Davis. Mr. Davis learned that he was down in Lee county, five or six miles from Smithville, and he went down and by some means found out exactly where he was and arrested him without any trouble, brought him back to Preston and lodged him in jail, where he will remain until court.

Mr. S. F. Bringle, of Orlando, Florida, loaded a car with milk cows at Quitman on Tuesday last. The cows were purchased near here and were generally fine ones. Mr. H. M. Elder made most of the purchases for Mr. Bringle.

The Lumpkin Independent tells of a little son of Mr. W. H. Griffis, who has been afflicted for nearly a year and a half with what he and his wife thought to be nasal catarrh, and he has been under treatment for catarrh during that time. A few days ago the little boy discharged from his nose a cotton seed which had been lodged there for seventeen months, and was the cause of the trouble. No doubt it caused great relief to the little sufferer as well as to his anxious parents.

John Dixon is fated to gain notoriety in the courts of Lumpkin county. It will be remembered that he spent the winter in jail, during which time he made an ineffectual attempt to starve himself to death, and for which sinful act he afterward heartily repented. At the spring term of the superior court he was acquitted of the trifling charge of pointing a gun at a guano agent without letting the gun go off. After his release he went to his family, who were living on Mr. F. A. Bush's place, in the Green Hill district, but his turbulent spirit knew no rest. He got into trouble with Mr. Bush, who finally had him arrested on a charge of appropriating a half barrel of scuppernong wine to his own use. He was arrested and sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury at the October term of the Stewart superior court. With the exception of an occasional fit and internal hemorrhages his health is apparently good.

Waycross Reporter: The town council has granted the "Waycross street railway company," of which Mr. H. Murphy is president, the right of way through Plant avenue, from the South Florida and Western railway company's depot, up Main street to the court-house, for laying and constructing a street railroad, under certain conditions and restrictions.

The heaviest mortgage ever recorded in court in Chatham county was entered in the superior court Saturday. It was given by the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad to the Metropolitan Trust company, of New York, for $650,000. The interest at the rate of 6 per cent is to be paid in gold coin or its equivalent every six months. The mortgage is given for a loan to complete the payments on the improvements of the line and branches, and the further betterment of the road.

Mrs. J. O. Maughan, of Taylor county, is dead.

At the reunion of the Cobb family in Americus Mrs. Jacob Cobb, the aged grandmother, in a conversation with the editor of the Sumter Republican, gave a very interesting account of early life in Georgia.

"My father," said she, "came to what is now Sumter county, January 17th, 1828; on the 9th of the next month (February 1828) my husband and I crossed Flint river and settled on Line creek in the same county, their Lee. My first child was at that time an infant.

"We moved to Americus 26th February, 1834. My husband was clerk of the superior court of Lee until Sumter was formed, and then he was clerk of the superior court of this county for a long time. The first superior court for Sumter was held at our house, Hon. Grigsby E. Thomas, judge presiding. The judge's chair was stationed on a huge goods box and the bar made of goods boxes ranged around the room. After the judge's charge was over the grand jury marched out of the house and swarmed round a burning heap." Here Mrs. Cobb laughed heartily. "After awhile the sheriff borrowed a candle and carried them in.

"Holman's, May's, Tiner's and our family were the only families living here in 1834. A man named Moore came here soon afterwards and contracted to build the courthouse. He received half his money in advance and left without doing a lick of work.

"All the residences here at that time were log houses. Leson Smith had the first framed house built that was ever built in Americus, and Daniel Freeman was the architect; Dr. Hardwicke's office was the next framed house. E. R. Brown was the first lawyer here and T. C. Sullivan came soon after. T. B. Harvey, from Jefferson, taught the first school here. Board and lodging for men, women and children was then $7.50 a month. When we came to Americus, the place of the present public square, and from there to the creek, was a dense wilderness, and I have heard in the swamp what was said to be the scream of the panther.

"The Tiner boys took the contract for clearing up the square at $40.00. In cutting down a tree they would decide which way they wanted it to fall, and climb up and tie a rope in the top. Then when the tree was cut nearly enough to fall, a horn was blown and a full turnout of the men in town ran up and pulled the rope. When the trees were all down, the timber and stumps were so thick you could not walk through on the ground."

"Mrs. Cobb, how many children have you had and where were they born?"

"Fifteen; one born in Wilkinson, three on Line creek, two in Americus and nine at this place, (which was the old family home.) My son Robert E. Cobb was the first boy child ever born in Americus. Eleven of my children are yet living, and seventy-nine of my children and grand and great grand-children."

Major W. B. Gorman, of Wilkes county, has a lock of wool taken from a last year's lamb which measures seventeen inches.

The Greensboro News says that Charley King's experience in raising fancy poultry is very discouraging. He invested eight dollars in eggs, and only three of them have hatched. Two of the young chicks were killed by a pet dog, and the other committed in a duck trough. He is completely disgusted with the business and will abandon it, to engage in possum raising.

Savannah Times: On the night of the 30th inst. while Lee Roy W. Smith, a young son of Mr. A. G. Smith, was out on Mill Creek, Bryan county, near his father's residence, together with some other boys, striking by fire light for fish, he discovered a huge alligator. "He called for his brother, Mr. W. R. Smith, who repaired to the scene with a gun and ax [illegible] and succeeded in killing the monster. It is a very large one for our waters, measuring ten feet in length and one and three-quarter feet across the back, and looked as if he could have swallowed whole a good sized calf.

THE ATHENS INSTITUTE.

The Approaching Commencement of the Lucy Cobb.

ATHENS, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—The approaching commencement of the Lucy Cobb institute promises to be the most interesting ever held at that well known institution. The exercises will embrace new features that will be both pleasing and instructive. The old time idea of concerts and long tiring parts will be done away with and their places filled with charming operettas [illegible] with more of select tions.

The commencement season will begin with the reception of the H. S. D. society, June 13, on which occasion the young ladies will entertain th

Tuesday morning the juniors will delight their friends, and Tuesday night the members of the music class will render an operetta. "The War of the Roses," which will be highly entertaining.

Wednesday morning, there will be an elocutionary contest for a gold medal between members of the elocutionary class. At noon of this day will occur the annual banquet of the Alumnae society, on which occasion Miss Julia Flesch, of Augusta, will deliver the address. Much preparation has been made for this event and it will be grand.

Wednesday night, the seniors will deliver their graduating compositions, after which the medals and diplomas will be delivered by May Lamar Cobb.

It is expected that a larger crowd of visitors will attend than ever were in attendance before.

THE CONDITION OF THE INSTITUTE

was never in a more flourishing condition and bids fair to become the institution for the education of young ladies in the south. The administration of Miss Millie Rutherford has been marked with success. As a teacher in the Atlanta public schools she established herself as a superior instructor of young ladies, and her connection with the Lucy Cobb has maintained it.

Three years ago the school was in the last stages of existence when she assumed control, since it has steadily grown in popular favor until it is now on solid basis. There are 136 scholars enrolled and 53 boarders, more than the school ever had. The senior class numbers 19, and is composed of young ladies who will reflect much credit on the school. The seniors are now occupied by the finals which will be finished June 11th, on which day the honors will be given.

WHAT MISS RUTHERFORD SAID.

In a conversation to-day the principal said: "In all of my school experience I have never seen a year that has passed more pleasantly. The young ladies have been studious and a perfect confidence exists between them and their teachers. They are honorable, lightioned and obedient. I regard the approaching commencement the most entertaining I have ever known at the school. It will have many new features and will please the audiences. The present corps of teachers will be retained with the exception of the art department."

THE CHILDREN'S CENTENNARY.

A Bright and Happy Scene at the First Methodist Church.

ATHENS, June 3.—[Special.]—Yesterday was a memorable occasion for the children of Athens. It was the celebration of the Methodist centennary anniversary, and was participated in by nearly all the little folks of the church. The celebration occurred in the afternoon and was attended by over four hundred people. The first Methodist presented a beautiful scene.

It was handsomely decorated with bright flowers, which contrasted with the beaming faces of the little ones. On either side of the pulpit was arranged a large pyramid of house plants, and in front of the pulpit was banked exquisite white roses, magnolias, geraniums and other fragrant flowers. Just in the center was stationed a large ladder composed of flowers tastefully arranged. The music of the occasion had been especially prepared, and was excellent.

The Choir

Consisted of Messrs. D. H. Winter and Charles Strahn, Mrs. Muer, Misses Skiff, Veronel, Jackson, Mrs. Sutton, Miss Mary Nicholson presided with queenly dignity over the organ.

The [illegible] as highly interesting and enjoyable by the large congregation [illegible] owing selection:

Recitation of the centennary ode by Miss Blanche Lipscomb.

Recitation of the missionary hymn, which was joined in by the choir.

The next was Mrs. John W. Nicholson's class, composed of tiny little creatures, marching from the Sunday school room singing, the front group bearing banners emblematic of the jewels in the crown of life. The class occupied seats prepared inside the altar. The following little misses represented the jewels:

Topaz, Nathlie Chandler.
Emerald, Nellie Calvin.
Ruby, Mary Hunnicutt.
Sapphire, Susie Barron.
Amathyst treasure, Lee Nicholson.
Agate, Helen Carlton.
Diamond, Mary Lou Lambert.
Pearl, Jule Hodgson.

The next on the programme was a colloquy on women and Methodism by Misses Leila Chandler, Bessie Thurmond, Pinkie Hunnicutt and Julia Boring.

This was followed by an interesting feature consisting of the arrangement of blocks of wood containing verses on the ladder that occupied the front of the pulpit. It was participated in by seven boys and seven girls, and proved quite interesting. Little Nathlie Chandler next recited a piece which was followed by the infant class. The Rev. Mr. Quillian, pastor of Oconee, made a few remarks and a general collection was taken up, the baskets being taken around by the little girls. The occasion was presided over by Mr. Y. L. G. Harris and Rev. Mr. Quillian, and was in every particular a success.

During the afternoon Mr. Reuben Nickerson exhibited a hymn book of hymns collected by Rowland Hill in 1783, and presented by John Wesley, December same year to Mary Willington, a member of his church. The book is a rare one and has the old font containing s's for f's. It has been handed down to the present generation by members of Mr. Nickerson's family. WYNTON.

ELECTRO-MAGNETIC GIRL.

Mattie Lee Price, the Wonderful Georgia Girl, Gives an Exhibition in Kentucky.

Special to the Louisville Courier-Journal.

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 28.—A little girl, fourteen years of age and weighing ninety pounds, gave an exhibition at the opera house last night of such remarkable physical powers as would put Sullivan and Mace and all the great health-lifters to blush. Mattie Lee Price is the name of this prodigy of power; the place of her nativity Bartow county, Georgia. During the Christmas holidays, so says her manager, she first discovered her power by astonishing her playmates in the moving of chairs and tables merely by the touch of her hands. She is an ordinary looking child, and is devoid of cultivation, but is quick in reading character, which she has demonstrated by refusing to hold any converse with certain persons brought before her for introduction. The manager says her powers in this respect were tried before she left home and proved correct in every instance.

At the performance last night, Governor Knott, Attorney General Hardin, Auditor Hewitt, Colonel John R. Procter, Major Henry T. Stanton, Hon. Ira Julian, Colonel H. Y. McCarty, Colonel C. E. Bowman, General Daniel Lindsay, Dr. J. Q. A. Stewart, Dr. Sawyier, Dr. James, Dr. Hume and Captain Sam. M. Gaines were among the many in the audience. The attorney general, who weighs two hundred pounds and over, and is perhaps one of the stoutest men in the state, took hold of a chair, and the little girl touched it with her open palms and caused it to wriggle and move all about the stage. Major Stanton, weighing 235 pounds, then sat in the chair, the attorney-general and Dr. Sawyier both pressed upon it with their whole weight and power, and the chair rose up to the girl's touch. This experiment was varied by others, when the same result was equally as satisfactory and astonishing. Dr. Sawyier and the attorney-general took hold of a stick and despite their resistance the girl's touch drawed them about the stage, much to the delight of the gallery, as attested by their loud applause. The doctors here examined the attorney-general's pulse and found it had risen to 140, while the girl's was 104. She betrayed not the least evidence of muscular exercise or excitement attending such powerful feats. Major Stanton and Dr. Sawyier took hold of a chair, and with all the power they could summon they could not place the chair on the floor as long as the girl's hands touched it.

Another, and perhaps the best test of her preternatural powers, was the touching by open palm the end of a stick standing upright, on the other end of which Drs. Sawyier, James and the attorney general exerted their combined strength to press to the floor, but without avail.

The following testimonial was circulated about the city this morning, and it is an additional guarantee of good faith:

We, the undersigned, having witnessed and made a test of her wonderful power, can cheerfully recommend her to the citizens of Frankfort. Her feats are indeed wonderful and can scarcely be believed except by eye-witnesses. Her electro-magnetic powers are worthy of scientific investigation.

Death of Colonel J. B. Stafford.

DALTON, June 3.—[Special.]—Colonel J. B. Stafford, an old and esteemed resident of this city, died at his home on Thornton avenue, on the evening of the 30th ultimo. His funeral was largely attended at the First Baptist church, of which he was a member.

A Good Sermon.

DALTON, June 3.—[Special.]—Rev. J. W. Lee, of Rome, preached a profound sermon this morning to a crowded house. His appearance in his old pulpit, the M. E. Church South, was a special pleasure to the host of ardent friends whom he made while pastor here. He has lost none of his deep earnestness and courage of conviction and the sermon of to-day has been a topic of general conversation and universal admiration by all who were able to find seats at the church.

Survey of the Marietta and Alpharetta Railroad---Crops.

ALPHARETTA, June 3.—[Special.]—A surveying party left here on yesterday for Blackwell's crossing on the Marietta and North Georgia railroad, for the purpose of making a preliminary survey of the Marietta and Alpharetta railroad. Our people now mean business and intend to have a railroad.

Wheat crops are looking quite promising, no rust as yet. Oats badly injured by the drouth. Cotton looks unusually fine and is mostly chopped out. Some are giving the second working. Corn is small, but has a good color and large stalk. Gardens are generally better than usual. Vegetables are plentiful.

Personal Topics in Dalton.

DALTON, June 3.—[Special.]—The friends of Mr. E. Humphrey and family, who moved to Fort Worth, Texas, a few months since, regret to hear of the serious illness of Miss Floy and other members of the family since going there.

Mr. E. H. Carman left this evening for Nashville, Tennessee, and an extended tour north.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Babcock, of central New York, are pleasant guests of H. C. Babcock on Thornton avenue.

Principal C. W. McCall is perfecting the arrangements for an attractive "commencement programme" of the High school on the 19th, beginning next week.

The Dalton female college is in a most flourishing condition, and the coming commencement promises to be most interesting. The class of graduates is large and very intelligent, and the public may expect a treat. Exercises begin June 15th.

Speech of Thomas Clarke at Shorter College.

ROME, June 3.—[Special.]—At Shorter college last night, Thomas Clarke, of Montgomery, delivered an address before the college societies. His subject was, "Margaret Roper: A plea for the better training of our women."

"The period of the renaissance," said Mr. Clarke, "into which Margaret Roper was born teaches us a lesson. Woman was highly regarded and highly educated during the renaissance. She exercised a powerful influence on the course of affairs in Italy, France and England. The Puritan reformation stayed the revival in England. In France the movement had a normal development. The French mind is all that is open and clear and splendid. We are in the midst of a renaissance of our own, material growth, social upheaval, attrition for belief. We need that the revolution coming on shall be gradual. Women are conservative. The home is conservative. The fireside defense is the grandest defense against our ills. We must give our women more freedom and educate them more highly."

The speaker commended Sharp's maxim: "A perfect education is a love for walking and a love for reading; health and an abundance of ideas."

The oration was masterly one, and was closely listened to throughout.

A NEW SUSPENSION BRIDGE.

Madison and Oglethorpe Counties to Have a New Bridge---Crops.

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—The picnic of the season was at Watson's mill, Saturday last. The committee from Madison and Oglethorpe counties met there to decide upon a plan on which to build the bridge across Broad river at that point.

The plan selected is for a suspension bridge to be built of all good heart pine lumber, 18 feet wide, 14 feet high, resting each end upon stone piers laid of split stone in cement abutments, stone wall two feet thick, laid in lime mortar filled in with stone and with earth. The bridge to be housed and painted. Commissioners meet there on the first Saturday in July next to let the contract to build the bridge.

SALE OF LIBERTY HALL.

The Historic Ground Purchased by the Stephens Memorial Association.

CRAWFORDVILLE, June 3.—[Special]—Liberty Hall, the home of the late Governor Stephens, together with the furniture was sold at public sale to-day and bought by Mr. Joseph Myers, of Augusta, Georgia, for the Stephens Monumental association. The Liberty Hall property, exclusive of the furniture, brought twenty-five hundred dollars; the library, which originally cost nearly twenty thousand dollars, was bought by Colonel John A. Stephens for eight hundred dollars. Hon. George T. Barnes, president of the association, was present at the sale.

CAMACK, Ga., April 3.—[Special.]—To-day was a memorable one in Crawfordville, made so by the sale of Liberty hall, the historic house of Alexander H. Stephens. At eleven o'clock a large crowd had gathered to witness the sale, including several directors of the Stephens memorial association, from various counties around. George C. Barnes, president of the association, and Mr. J. Myers, of Augusta, a director. The sale of the homestead was conducted by Mr. Mark Grager, sheriff of the county. When the opening of the sale was announced by him, Mr. Myers representing the association, made a bid of $2,500, and the property was knocked down to him amid much enthusiasm. The party then repaired to the residence, and the interior was inspected. The library was purchased by Mr. John A. Stephens for $1,800. The bed room and sitting room of the great commoner was also purchased by the association, after which the party went to the office of Mr. W. R. Guin, the treasurer of the association, and made the sale legal with the proper signatures, after which it adjourned to discuss the sale.

THE PROPERTY VIEWED.

The property consists of nearly eight acres, including the residence and will be admirably suited for the wants of the association. Mr. Myers stepped on board the fast train this afternoon, and as he became seated he was joined by a representative of THE CONSTITUTION. During the few minutes conversation he said: "The sale has been made, signed, sealed and delivered, and we are in possession of Liberty hall. The association will begin at once to improve the place, and make it a beautiful spot. We have purchased the bed and furniture with the entire outfit, just as it was when Mr. Stephens left it, and also all the interior of the sitting room. We are going to open subscription lists in the principal cities of the state for the purpose of raising funds to erect a handsome monument and bring his body from Atlanta.

THE MONUMENT TO BE ERECTED.

"The monument will be erected in the grove in front of the dwelling. A school will be established, but the association has not decided what kind it will be. I shall visit Athens, Savannah and Macon for the purpose of forming committees to carry out the work of the association, after which I shall visit New York and Washington for the purpose of soliciting subscriptions. It is the intention to make the place a beautiful park and throw it open to visitors."

Mr. Myers was one of Mr. Stephens truest friends, their associations having been very intimate since 1850.

WOMAN.
Her Health and Happiness are Matters of Great Concern to all Mankind.

NEAR MARIETTA, GA.

Some months ago I bought a bottle of Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator, and used it in my family with great satisfaction. I have recommended it to three families, and they have found it to be just what is claimed for it. The females who have used it are now in perfect health and able to attend to their household duties.

REV. H. B. JOHNSON.

STATE OF GEORGIA, Troup County.

I have examined the recipe of Dr. Josiah Bradfield, and pronounce it to be a combination of medicines of great merit in the treatment of all diseases of females for which he recommends it.

WM. P. BEASLEY, M. D.

SPRINGFIELD, TENN.

DR. J. BRADFIELD: Dear Sir—My daughter has been suffering for many years with that dreadful affliction known as Female Disease, which has cost me many dollars, and notwithstanding I had the best medical attendance, could not find relief. I have used many other kinds of medicines without any effect. I had just about given her up, was out of heart, but happened in the store of W. W. Eckler several weeks since, and he, knowing of my daughter's affliction, persuaded me to buy a bottle of your Female Regulator. She began to improve at once. I was so delighted with its effect that I bought several more bottles of it; and, knowing what I do about it, if to-day one of my family was suffering with that awful disease, I would have it if it cost $50 a bottle, for I can truthfully say it has cured my daughter sound and well, and myself and wife do most heartily recommend your Female Regulator to be just what it is represented to be.

Respectfully, H. D. FEATHERSTON.

SPRING
Is the season in which bad or poisoned blood is most apt to show itself. Nature, at this juncture, needs something to assist it in throwing off the impurities which have collected by the sluggish circulation of blood during the cold winter months. Swift's Specific is nature's great helper, as it is a purely vegetable alterative and tonic.

Rev. L. B. Paine, Macon, Ga., writes: We have been using Swift's Specific at the orphans' home as a remedy for blood complaints, and as a general health tonic, and have had remarkable results from its use on the children and employees of the institution. It is such an excellent tonic, and keeps the blood so pure, that the system is less liable to disease. It has cured some of our children of Scrofula."

W. H. Gilbert, druggist, Albany, Ga., writes: "We are selling large quantities of Swift's Specific for a spring alterative and general health tonic, and with the best results. It is now largely used as a preventive and cure for Malaria. There are many remarkable evidences of its merit in this section."

THE GREAT DRUG HOUSE OF CHICAGO.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) than all other Blood Purifiers combined, and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used a half dozen bottles says it did him more good than treatment which cost him $1,000. Another who has used it for a Scrofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use.

RAILROAD NEWS.

THE HEADLIGHES RUNNING INTO ATLANTA.

The Streams of Travel Constantly Passing Through Atlanta The New Orleans and Atlanta Canal—Nashville and Memphis—The Memphis and Vicksburg—Local Points.

BELGIUM had the first railroads on the continent of Europe. State preparations are in progress for the celebration of the fiftieth year of the new system of transit on May 1.

THE question of a uniform system of train signals, recommended by the general time convention, was discussed at the recent meeting of the American railroad superintendents in New York, and is receiving considerable attention throughout the country.

TWO HUNDRED hands, in the employ of the Plant railroad system, arrived at Leesburg Tuesday night and left Thursday morning for Tuckertown and the Flat Ford, on the Hillsboro river, where they will begin and work south and north to Pemberton Ferry, on the Withlacoochee river. It is expected the Florida Southern will build from Leesburg to Pemberton Ferry, although no hands are at work between those points. Tuckertown is five miles north of the Flat Fort, situated in Hernando county.

THE St. Louis, New Orleans and Atlanta canal and transportation company, stock $20,000,000, has been incorporated by E. L. Carriere, Jules Le More, A. A. Lelong and A. Selfreiber, all of New Orleans, and others, to connect the Mississippi river with the Atlantic ocean, by means of canals in the states of Florida, Georgia, Louisiana and Alabama.

Going and Coming.

Two streams of travel in opposite directions are constantly passing through Atlanta.

Captain Fred Bush, of the Louisville and Nashville, said to a CONSTITUTION reporter yesterday:

"I have just sold five tickets to Portland, Oregon, to a party from Lumpkin county."

"And why do they go to Oregon?" asked the reporter.

"They are going there to try their luck in the gold fields," was the reply.

"Do many Georgians go to the northwest?"

"A good many, but not as many as go from East Tennessee, the Carolinas, and Virginia. The emigration from those states is immense. Fully 1,500 from that section went to the northwest during the past season."

"And the Georgians?"

"Well, from northeast Georgia, the emigrants go to the northwest. From the middle and southern part of the state they go to Arkansas and Texas."

"Are these many people coming into Georgia to settle?"

"Yes, a good many. I receive numerous letters from Ohio and Indiana making inquiries about the state, and I frequently see families and small parties of immigrants arrive here. Only the other day I met an Indiana banker who had been here ten days. He was very much struck with Atlanta, and said that he was going home to sell out. His idea was to move here and establish a bank. Yes, you may put it down that there is a steady stream of immigration pouring into Georgia, but as the immigrants generally come singly or in families they do not attract as much attention as the people who are leaving the state, as the latter generally travel in large parties."

Local Railroad Points.

Professor Agostini left yesterday for his summer home at Roanoke.

Mr. J. J. Griffin, general freight agent of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, was in Macon yesterday attending a meeting of turpentine men.

The schooner Isaac Kestine arrived at Brunswick yesterday with freight for Lamar, Rankin & Lamar, John Silvey & Co., Crane, Boylston & Co., and other parties.

Work on the new East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia freight depot will begin some time this month.

The following ladies passed through the city yesterday to attend a meeting of a home and foreign mission society at Kansas City: Mrs. J. R. Cobb, of Macon; Mrs. Morgan Calloway, of Oxford; Mrs. J. W. Humbert, of Charleston; Mrs. Smith, of Jacksonville; and Mrs. Bumpass, of North Carolina.

Mr. Harry Underwood, of the Louisville and Nashville, is visiting Huntsville.

Two car loads of melons arrived yesterday by the Josup and Atlanta Short Line to Chattanooga. They will be carried by the Louisville and Nashville to Nashville and Cincinnati. This makes six car loads this season, two for Atlanta, two for Nashville, one for Chicago and one for Cincinnati.

All the indications point to an immense crowd of excursionists, Saturday, for the Macon walking match.

Nashville and Memphis.

From the Nashville World.

The directors and others interested in the proposed new railroad, from Nashville to Memphis, have been in business session in this city for the last day or two, and have agreed upon the points to be touched by the road as far as Jackson, among which may be mentioned Centerville, Linden, Perryville, Decaturville, Lexington and Jackson. It is believed there will be no trouble whatever in raising the money to build the road, and that the contracts will be let and the work begun at an early day.

This road will run through some of the finest iron and coal lands in the state, and directly through the best cotton lands in Tennessee, and will be unquestionably one of the best paying roads in the state. The only wonder is it was not built many years ago. The people along the entire route are exceedingly anxious for it to be built, and it is believed there will be no difficulty found in raising the amount necessary to secure its construction. Those engaged in the enterprise are alive to the work and if possible will move the heavens and the earth to secure their object. Nashville and Memphis may expect to be connected at no distant day by a direct railroad and one calculated to add materially to the growth of both cities.

The Memphis and Vicksburg.

JACKSON, May 31.—Eugene Marlen, et. al., brought suit in the chancery court of Warren county against the Memphis and Vicksburg railroad company and Wilson and Huntington, involving $2,500,000 of the stock and bonds of said company. The defendants some time since made a motion to remove the cause to the United States court at this place. Chancellor Cowan overruled the motion, maintaining his jurisdiction.

After said ruling, defendants, as was their right brought the record to the United States court, whereupon A. B. Pitman, counsel for complaint moved to remand the case to the Warren chancery court. The motion was resisted by General E. C. Walthall and Colonel W. A. Perry, counsel for defendants. After lengthy, able and exhaustive arguments on both sides, Judge Hill to-day overruled the motion and retains the case for trial in his court. Unless Chancellor Cowan yields to this decision, he can proceed to trial with the case also, thus making dual cases on the same ground of action.

MONTGOMERY OIL WORKS,
MONTGOMERY, Ala., October 2d, 1883.

Messrs. Haile & Mower, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Sirs: Your favor to hand. The Elixir came by express. Herein please find two dollars for same. If I knew one single sufferer would read my certificate and try your medicine, would feel that I had done a great wrong to refuse its publication. If you knew the relief it has brought to suffering ones in my family you would not wonder at my warm and hearty indorsement. The medicine by mere chance fell into my wife's hands while at ASons last summer; and were you to hear her talk of its effect upon her and our married daughter, you would feel glad that you had any agency in working such a revolution in their health and bringing back to them newness of life. With a wish for your success, I am most truly,

THE HISTORY OF

Brewer's Lung Restorer

Its Claims Upon the Public—Why it Should be Universally Used.

It is very often the case that treasures remain hidden for years right under one's eyes and only discovered at last by accident. Such was the case with Brewer's Lung Restorer. This remedy was used for nearly forty years by a little neighborhood of people who either did not appreciate its true value or did not have the means or opportunity to proclaim its virtues to the world. When they had a cough, sore throat, bronchitis, tickling in the throat or other throat and lung troubles they made them a small kettle full of this unnamed remedy, the material for which they had but to look for in the forests and old fields surrounding their homes and in a remarkably short time they were relieved by its use and never thought of it any more until it was again required. However, things have changed since those days. Such treasures are easily sought after and do not long remain in obscurity. The present proprietors of this old remedy having by accident learned that its cures were miraculous determined at once to ascertain for themselves what merit it really possessed, and having tested it in a great number of cases, in all of which it proved efficacious, they purchased the right to manufacture and sell the same under the name of Brewer's Lung Restorer and it has become so widely known under their management that it is to-day recognized as the greatest throat and lung remedy of the age. Containing no opiates it can be taken with perfect safety by the most delicate. Being entirely vegetable its effects can in no way be harmful and even in the event that it fails to cure the general health of the patient is greatly improved. It can be given to six month's old infants in the prescribed doses with beneficial effects; yet full grown men are surprised at its magical effect on them.

Those who suffer from wasting diseases, such as consumption and dyspepsia, rapidly gain in flesh and strength by the use of Brewer's Lung Restorer. Many instances of patients gaining 7 pounds of flesh from every bottle they took have been reported to us. Testimonials from the best people in the land are found in every newspaper of consequence and such testimonials from such men must convince the public that this remedy possesses great merit. This medicine, indorsed by such men, has done more to break down the prejudice existing against patent medicines than any other remedy known. For the various reasons mentioned we call upon suffering humanity to give Brewer's Lung Restorer a trial. It is almost infallable. Its effects are wonderful—in fact miraculous.

THE CONSTITUTION,
Atlanta, Georgia.

ATLANTA, JUNE 4, 1884.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states, generally fair weather, stationary temperature, winds generally from east to south.

THE result at the primaries in Georgia yesterday shows how accurately THE CONSTITUTION guessed the sentiments of the people toward the old ticket. Georgia is for Tilden and Hendricks beyond a doubt.

THE drowning of General Babcock in a Florida lake recalls to mind the days when he stood toward Grant in the white house as Ward recently stood toward him on Wall street. Babcock was relegated to his native obscurity, while Grant went forth to sell his name and influence through new agencies.

THE defeat of Powell Clayton in the republican convention yesterday was a violation of the precedent of forty years, and drew the color line to the Arkansas republicans satisfaction.

THE facility with which the senate disposes of business during the absence of its republican members at Chicago, shows what progress might be made if the people would retire them permanently.

THE democrats of Arizona have instructed their delegates to the Chicago convention to vote for Tilden and Hendricks.

SOUTHERN CROP PROSPECTS.

The agricultural department at Washington is in possession of statistics of an encouraging character from the southern states. In Georgia there has been an evident improvement in the condition of wheat since April 1. This is due partly to the favorable weather and largely to the unexpected "come out" in many fields that were thought to be very much injured by previous cold and wet weather. Heavy wind and rain storms delayed the planting of cotton from five to twenty days. The stand, where planted sufficiently long, is good, and the plants generally are in a healthy condition. The area planted is from two to three per cent less than that of last year.

The wheat crop in other southern states exhibits a variety of conditions. In Maryland it is in high condition, except on heavy clay soils which have been too wet. A similar report comes from Virginia and North Carolina. The South Carolina crop headed well, but in some fields a maggot destroyed the roots. Favorable reports come from Alabama, Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee. Very little wheat was planted in Mississippi.

Cotton planting all over the south was delayed by the low temperature in April. The proportion planted May 1, was as follows: North Carolina, 45 per cent; South Carolina, 60; Georgia, 68; Florida, 95; Alabama, 75; Mississippi, 76; Louisiana, 77; Texas, 80; Arkansas, 70; and Tennessee, 52 per cent. In Virginia and North Carolina the limited area devoted to cotton has been considerably reduced, and in many locations peanuts are taking its place. In both these states, and also in Kentucky and Tennessee, there is a marked increase in the tobacco acreage. In the Carolinas greater attention is paid this year to small grain. An increase in food and forage crops is reported from Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, but in some sections of those states there is a largely increased area in cotton. A change from cotton to grain, hay and grass is noticeable in Arkansas and Tennessee.

In brief, all the statistics at hand present the southern crop situation in a very favorable light.

TYPES AND CHARACTERS.

A creole who attended the reading, recently given in New Orleans by Mr. George W. Cable, the novelist, writes to the Times-Democrat to protest against the one-sided representation of creole character given by Mr. Cable in his stories as well as in his reading. Praising the brilliancy displayed by the reader in the interpretation of his characters, the creole says:

I left the hall, however, with other emotions also. Feeling proud that the American part of Louisiana's population had added another celebrity to the many our creoles had placed on their state's roll of honor, I felt regretful that Cable should have confined his selections and delineations altogether to the lowest grades of the creole population. Judging them by the language he places in their mouths, they are what we would call "cadiens," "chacas," "choupics," "patasas," mulattoes, negroes. I felt that on an occasion so important as that of a first lecture before a New Orleans audience, where he expected to meet a population which unfortunately is being misjudged from his writings, if there exist in his works pages devoted to delineations of the higher types of our creoles, some of them should have been read. A proper regard for the best class of that population should have led him to place such pages alongside of those he presented, that no stranger should leave his readings believing that he had seen the creole population depicted in a fair light. That no one should believe, even allowing for poetic licenses, that a character such as Narcisse's, speaking creole patois only, was a standard among the class of our young creoles who composed the "Louisiana Zouaves," or "Chasseurs-a-Pied," or that any of the officers of that command were not as high in intelligence, education, morality and manhood, as the best of the American class that served their state at the same time. I acknowledge the truthfulness of the creole characters as far as he depicts them. I concede that they are vivid, living; that I seem to recognize the individuals; but I protest at such being raised above their proper level, and made to appear as representative types of any other than the class the author has chosen to use for purposes of fiction, or for the market in which he expects the best sale for his works.

The writer of the foregoing declares that he has read none of Mr. Cable's works. It may be supposed, therefore, that in "The Grandissimes" the creole critic will find matter to correct what he now feels to be the infelicity of the novelist's plan. But even there he will perceive that the creoles are treated from the standpoint of a spectator who, while appreciative, is more than half-amused at what he sees. Thus, while the creole mother and daughter in "The Grandissimes" are delightful creations, tenderly conceived and delicately drawn, one cannot fail to perceive that they are entirely subordinate to the point-of-view of the novelist, which is from the outside. The contrast between types and classes is not strong enough for those who have every excuse in the world for regarding themselves and their history with proud satisfaction.

If we make a general application of the protest which the correspondent of the Times-Democrat files against Mr. Cable, we shall find that it is not only just, but that it marks the point where real criticism should begin its perfect work. It is a protest that may justly be made with respect to much of the fictitious writing that comprises what may be termed the new era of American literature. Nothing but a lack of self-confidence or mental laziness can prevail upon the literary artist to seize upon the excrescences and carbuncles called "types." The human nature of the individual is as typical, as humorous and as informing as that of the so-called "type," and far more important to life and art.

We should think that the public—the cultivated public at least—had grown a little weary of the "type" in fiction. Certainly it is time for our literary men to turn to the individual—to human nature itself—and to the old simplicity of treatment that has given fame to the greatest masters of literature. The type of an American girl, or of an American youth, is interesting for a moment, but not longer. The interest of the world and the interest of art centers in life and nature. We frequently hear of writers of fiction traveling from post to pillar in search of what they call "new types." Such a disposition betrays a hopeless ignorance of the demands and requirements of art and of the rich possibilities of the life that is going on at their elbows. Nevertheless, it is probable that their will always be room for the reporter in literature. There are passing moods which make his work valuable, but those who strive to make their work enduring will have to return to the study of human nature in all its simplicity.

THE PEANNER.

Every intelligent citizen and voter in the United States will be glad to learn that a movement has been inaugurated in Berlin, the German capital, which has for its purpose the gradual suppression of the piano. A petition has gone up to the municipal authorities from the best people of that city praying that piano-playing and strumming be restricted and suppressed in the interests of the peace, comfort and well-being of the citizens, as well as in the interests of propriety.

It frets and galls us to know that people living under the harrowing limitations of an effete monarchy should have the spirit and the patriotism to inaugurate a reform which should have been quietly accomplished long ago in the great North American republic, the home of the free and the land of the brave. It is not too late, however, to put the slow-moving Germans to shame. While the red tape of the effete monarchy is engaged in scotching this patriotic reform, let us all, as one man, rise in America and put down the peanner.

It has held its place as a piece of musical furniture long enough. It has destroyed too many lives, it has warped the futures of too many young women—to be longer tolerated. There never has been any excuse for it. There has never been any reason for its being. It represents the barbarious evolution of what was once a respectable instrument, and the time has arrived when civilization ought to consign it to the limbo along with the other tools of tortue employed in the dark ages.

The sooner this is done the better—the better for humanity at large and the better for the rising generation of girls who are one and all, learning how to run their friends crazy by strumming upon this diabolical affair. The time will arrive when some political party will see the necessity of making the abolition of the piano an issue and the party that takes hold of such an issue with the necessary enthusiasm will find itself placed in power by an overwhelming majority. Tump-ta-diddle, tump-tump. The piano must go.

GEORGIA'S PROGRESS.

Referring to the failure of those who have been growing grain in the northwest on speculation—organizing immense farms and engaging in the business on a scale never dreamed of before—to realize their hope of controlling the foreign markets, the Boston Herald justly concludes that the much-vaunted progress of that region has also been mainly speculative. It thereupon compares that section with the south and says:

In the southern states, particularly in Georgia and Alabama, the apparent progress has been less, but the substantial gain greater, than in the districts just referred to. By degrees, the large estates have become broken up into small farms, and the disposition is more and more shown to take advantage of the natural opportunities of the country by diversifying the products of the land. The mania for speculation which has had of late such a powerful effect upon the people in the northern states does not seem to have influenced the southern mind. The opportunities there have been quite as great as in any other part of our country. For example, it is a well established fact that iron can be made at a lower price in Georgia than anywhere else in the United States, and perhaps in the world. If opportunities of this kind existed in the north, they would long before this have been made the basis of speculative enterprises. But in northern Georgia the coal and iron mines have been slowly developed in a legitimate and certain manner, so that their owners are now prepared to weather with ease any commercial crisis that can be experienced. The same is true of the farming industries of the south. They have been in the main carried on without thought of speculative profit, and while the gains may have been in certain seasons less, they have been much more regular, and the farmers themselves have not been led away into those extravagances which the hope of large profits almost always occasions. Certain it is that our eastern manufacturers who have dealings with both sections of the country consider that the south is just now a better field for trade than the west.

This fact, just discovered by the Herald, was as prominent in 1873 as it is now. Georgia and the south suffered from the depression that followed the panic of that year, but their real and substantial interests were in no wise affected. They were not entangled in the meshes and snares of speculation. The same may be said now in a larger and truer sense. The worry and confusion of the Wall street sharks that affects other sections are not felt here except by individuals. We make no undue boast when we say that the progress of Georgia has been greater than that which has been accredited to it in the census books, or in the columns of the newspapers. There are still opportunities for capital, but it is not necessary to advertise these, since our own people have acquired the habit of making home investments. In every direction the state is progressing as rapidly as we could wish.

THE red-eyed republicans threaten to break their suspenders if the internal revenue districts in the south are reduced. This shows how they stand in regard to real civil service reform.

EDITOR MOSES HANDY, of Philadelphia, has gone to Chicago, to pull his whiskers for Blaine.

IN the neighborhood of that high-minded statesman, Senator Edmunds, the sweetly-cold toddies are disappearing like pine bark in an eddy.

CONGRESS, with its ear turned toward Chicago, is in the attitude of a kitten that thinks it hears a rat in the cupboard.

IF the Mason cotton harvester realizes the anticipations of practical men, it will make itself a power in the south. When one hand and a pair of horses can pick as much cotton in a day as fifty hands pick now, or, in other words, when the cotton it now costs $30 to pick can be picked for $2.50, the cost of production will be decreased about $6 a bale, or a cent and a half a pound. The negro will be the first to feel the effects of the new methods and means impending. The number of laborers will be reduced and more intelligent labor demanded. The world is becoming harder for a fool to live in every year, and muscle is steadily losing ground before brains. One result of improved farm machinery will be to bring into cultivation every acre of productive land in the south. The material possibilities now dawning upon us are so dazzling that the southern people may readily be excused if they turn aside from the delusive snare of national politics to devote themselves to the substantial realities of progress.

"How a British Subject Became President of the United States," is the title of a neat little volume written by one A. P. Hinman. The book contains a number of certificates and other evidence tending to establish the fact that Chester A. Arthur was born in Canada, and being a British subject is ineligible to the presidency of the United States.

OUR sprightly contemporary, the Journal, is out in a new dress, and the improvement in its general appearance is very striking. THE CONSTITUTION feels a genuine pleasure in noting such indications of progress and prosperity.

A WRITER in the last number of the American Journalist says that he took from the press the first copy of the first daily paper ever issued in Atlanta. At that time he says the city contained about 1,800 inhabitants. He does not claim to be accurately posted as to Atlanta's present population, but from what he heard a stray Atlantian say a short time ago he is inclined to believe that the place contains about eighteen million people. It is evident that some unknown Georgia colonel is doing good missionary work up north.

MAJOR BARNA, the zealous and efficient commissioner of the Atlanta collective exhibit, now being organized for the New Orleans exposition, is meeting with gratifying success. Not only has he secured a splendid location for the erection of the Atlanta building, but the director-general has agreed to furnish the necessary labor for constructing the edifice, provided the exhibitors furnish the materials framed and ready for use. Major Barna has advertised for proposals from our lumber men to furnish the material, and the enterprise is being rapidly pushed along. Such is the interest manifested in the Atlanta exhibit that there ought to be no difficulty in raising the required funds.

What a Wife.

"Adolph," spoke witty Mrs. Phunnyman, as she poured the bristling coffee, "I received intelligence last night of the death of a dear friend."

"How sad," answered Adolph; "I suppose you are about to tell me of the sad farewell, and so forth?"

"Oh, no; on the contrary, she made no farewell remarks; and, in fact, hadn't spoken to her parents in seventeen years."

"Dear me, that's strange," gasped Adolph; "what was the trouble?"

"She was born dumb," answered the wife, smiling."

"What a pity that she died," thoughtfully mused Adolph.

"Why?" asked his other half, jealously.

"she would have proved such a haven of rest to some poor fellow," replied the wicked man, dodging a plate of hot biscuits.

THE United States Cremation company and the New York Cremation society held a joint meeting Thursday evening, J. D. Beugless presided. He said it cost $18,000 per annum alone to keep the grass cut on the graves in Greenwood cemetery. Courtland Palmer, Henry Tuck, M. D., and others spoke in behalf of cremation. The report of the society shows that nearly $25,000 has been subscribed, the amount the charter calls for before they can begin the erection of a furnace. The crematory will be built before the end of this year.

How it Flashed.

From the Philadelphia Press.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION has flashed upon the sweet sunny south in all the glory of a new outfit in type and make-up of sufficient attractiveness to indicate not only a substantial material prosperity, but also a keen sense of the progressive character of contemporary journalism. Without any desire to argue matters we feel bound to say that THE CONSTITUTION is entitled to a seat on the front row of great newspapers.

Too High Tempered.

From the Richmond Dispatch.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph and Messenger have gotten into a row over the walking match in that state, and are saying hard things about each other's legs. If our contemporaries don't moderate their temper a little the outside world will conclude that the time made was in proportion to the articular square foot of surface each contestant spread to the breeze.

Farewell to the World.

PITTSBURG, June 3.—Jesse Carter, colored, convicted as accessory to the murder of John Foster, by "Babe" Jones, was hanged at 11 o'clock this morning in the presence of fifty people. The condemned man displayed wonderful fortitude on the scaffold, where he reiterated his protestations of innocence, prayed and sang the hymn, "Farewell to the World."

Tickets to Macon.

Excursion tickets to Macon via the Central railroad will be placed on sale this morning at the ticket office, union passenger depot, and will continue to be sold until the excursion leaves Saturday morning. Parties who contemplate attending the walking match will do well to purchase their tickets early, in order to give the railroad officials an idea of the size of the crowd to be accommodated. Tickets will be good on the excursion trains Saturday only.

The Firm of Grant & Ward.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The court of common pleas this afternoon granted Julian J. Davies, assignee and receiver of Grant & Ward, an extension of 60 days time within which to file schedules of the insolvent firm. The extension is granted on application of Receiver Davies, who says he is unable to file the schedule within the thirty days prescribed by law. Davies stated that the assignors have failed to make any schedules or assist him in any way. These assignors are Ferd. Ward, U. S. Grant, Jr., and U. S. Grant, Sr. The receiver says that the affairs of the firm are yet in great confusion, and that it is almost impossible to ascertain who are creditors of the firm.

The Twiggs Swords.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—[Special.]—Senator Colquitt's bill restoring the Twiggs swords to the heirs of General Twiggs has passed the senate. These three magnificent swords were presented to General David Twiggs by the United States, the state of Georgia and the city of Augusta, for distinguished services in the Mexican war, and together are valued at $45,000. Ben Butler captured them in New Orleans, and since the war they have been on exhibition in the treasury department. Petitions for their return to the family have been repeatedly refused.

ECHOES FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Sunday Suggestion.

ATLANTA, June 1st.—Editors Constitution: In Philadelphia and other cities the street car companies are obliged to take the bells off their horses on Sunday. A CHURCH GOER.

Our Circulating Medium.

B. C., Maryville, Tenn.: What is the total amount of our circulating medium?

The distribution of the currency of the United States may be seen from the following figures, which give the state of money November 1, 1883:

Gold in the treasury and banks	$273,179,117
Silver in the treasury and banks	157,933,165
Paper currency in the treasury and banks	175,570,682

If the amounts of gold and silver coin and of currency in the treasury and the banks be deducted from the aggregate amount in the country, the remainder will be approximately the amounts in the hands of the people, as follows:

Gold	$308,701,137
Silver	84,768,767
Paper currency	523,124,121

The comptroller of the currency stated that the amount of national bank and legal tender notes outstanding October 31, 1883, was as follows:

National bank notes	$350,779,436
Legal tender notes	346,681,016
Total	$697,460,452

Fine Walking and Running.

J. M. T., Macon, Ga.: Please give me some facts and figures concerning great walkers and runners.

Four miles an hour is the ordinary standard pace for a good, brisk country walk; what shall we say, then, to eight miles in an hour, fair heel and toe? Yet this has been done by W. Perkins, J. Raby, Griffin, and other professors of the art. Perkins, indeed, has walked one mile in 6 minutes and 28 seconds—a rate of progression nearly approaching 9½ miles an hour. On the same occasion he walked two miles in 13 minutes 20 seconds, and three in 20 minutes 47 seconds, both unequaled records. The greatest distance ever walked without taking a rest is 120 miles 1,560 yards by Peter Crossland, of Sheffield. The greatest distance ever run in one hour is 11 miles 970 yards, by Deerfoot, at Old Brompton, in 1863; Deerfoot's real name being L. Bennett. The fastest time in which one mile has ever been run on level ground is 4 minutes 16 1-5 seconds, by W. Cummings, of Paisley, in 1881, at Preston; but in 1863 W. Lang ran a mile over a course which was partly down hill in 4 minutes and 2 seconds. The swiftest runner hitherto seen is a man named Hutchens, formerly newsboy at Putney station. In a Sheffield handicap he has covered 131½ yards in 12½ seconds, a performance which shows him many yards better than "even time" at one hundred yards, and even time is the unattained ambition of the great army of amateurs. (A hundred yards in "even time" means one hundred yards in ten seconds, or a rate averaging ten yards per second.) And he has performed the prodigious feat of covering 300 yards in 30 seconds, dead, the most wonderful piece of running on record. In 1873, R. Buttery, of Sheffield, ran a quarter of a mile in 48¼ seconds, which remains unbeaten to this day. George Hazael has run 50 miles in three seconds less than six hours and a quarter, and he has also performed the prodigious feat, only recently outdone in New York, of covering 600 miles in six days, "go-as-you-please," a pedestrian journey in which the competitors may run or walk as they prefer.

Mr. Milton B. Weed.

Mr. Milton B. Weed, the architect, died at his residence on Jackson street early yesterday morning of consumption. Mr. Weed was at one time a member of the firm of Norman & Weed, architects, and aided in drawing the plans for the exposition buildings in this city. He has been out of business since '81, and has been traveling for his health.

Langston Acquitted.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Frank Langston, a young colored man, son of the United States minister to Hati, who has been on trial in the criminal court in this city for the killing of James Spencer, colored, in a street brawl resulting from a fight between a white man and a negro, in which Langston interfered on behalf of the white man, was to-day acquitted of murder by a jury composed of seven white men and five negroes.

Funeral in Christ Church.

MACON, June 3.—[Special.]—Christ Episcopal church was filled yesterday morning at ten o'clock with a rousing congregation assembled in last tribute of love and respect to the memory of Mrs. Dr. Wm. F. Holt, who died last Saturday night after a few days illness, and was buried yesterday morning. The services were impressively conducted by Rev. Mr. Winmute, rector of St. Paul's and Rev. Mr. Winchester, of Christ churches. The singing was sweetly rendered by the regular choir of Christ church. The hymns sung were, "Lead kindly light," amid the encircling gloom, Lead thou me on." Also, "Just as I am without one plea."

The long line of carriages containing mourning friends and relatives that followed the remains to the grave showed with what deep regard its deceased was held. The casket, laden with loveiy and fragrant flowers, typical of the beauty and sweetness of the life and character of the departed loved one, was lowered to its final resting place by the pall bearers, Messrs. Henry J. Lamar, C. T. Ward, J. Monroe Ogden, W. F. Anderson, W. W. Parker and Doctors Hall, Hammond and Fitzgerald. The medical fraternity of Macon attended the funeral in a body out of respect to Dr. Holt, who is an honored and able physician of this city.

That New Dress.

From the Quitman Free Press.

THE CONSTITUTION is just too nice for anything.

From the Griffin News.

THE CONSTITUTION has donned a very light and airy dress, and looks as pretty as a pink and as innocent as a bride.

From the Valdosta Times.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION appears in a neat, new dress. It is a big paper in every sense of the work.

From the Sandersville Herald.

THE CONSTITUTION appeared in a new and beautiful dress on Tuesday, which that journal declares is the first step in a system of improvements soon to be completed, that will mark a new era and a new growth for this paper. They promise that their readers will in future get a better paper, more for their money, and what will interest their readers in this section, with a more prompt and regular delivery. THE CONSTITUTION generally carries out what it promises.

The Boom.

Hear the buzzing of the boom—
Booming boom!
What preponderant proportions it will presently assume!
How it rumbles, rumbles, rumbles,
In the amethystine air.
Like a buxom bee which bumbles
Round a flower that he fumbles
Ere upon a bind he tumbles
To secure the sweetness there!
Keeping time, time, time,
To a rugged, rolling rhyme,
To the limpid, liquid echoes that luxuriously loom.
From the boom, boom, boom, boom,
Boom, boom, boom,
From the fuming and the blooming of the boom!

Hear the bellow of the boom—
Blatant boom!
What a roaring and resounding as it gurgles in the gloom!
Through each village, town and state,
How the cheerful candidate
Hearkens to the howling notes,
All attune
To his spirit as it gloats,
When he pictures the convention and its votes
In sweet June!
Oh, from out the bounding boom,
What mad yet mellow melodies voluminously loom!

Hear they fume,
And presume
On the promises that bloom,
Ere they perish in the gloom.
With the rustle and the bustle
Of the boom, boom, boom,
Of the boom, boom, boom, boom,
With the skimming and the shamming,
With the blimming and the bamming,
Of the blus ting and the bacchanalian boom,
The ferocious and the filibust'ring boom!

THE SCENE PHOTOGRAPHED.

Mr. Lodge's Motion to Substitute Lynch for Clayton--The Committee on Address.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The proceedings of to-day, while characterized by great earnestness and close watchfulness to detect any evidence that the tide was turning in any direction, was not prolific in dramatic incidents for the reason that a large share of the session was occupied by the routine of calling the roll of the convention and the election of a temporary chairman. This part of the proceedings was only relieved from monotony by glimpses of personal characteristics and phases of feeling exhibited by the members as they rose one at a time to announce their personal or political preferences for temporary chairman. The first sensational feature of the session was immediately after Chairman Sabin announced the name of Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, as the choice of the national convention for temporary chairman of the convention, when Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, rose and moved to substitute the name of John R. Lynch, one of the colored delegates from Mississippi. Though some such action was anticipated, it caused a decided sensation. It was rumored last night that there was a movement on foot looking to the presentation forward of the name of B. K. Bruce, of Mississippi, a colored man, who was one of the vice presidents of the last national convention, and who, at the request of Senator Hoar, permanent chairman, surrendered the gavel as chairman for a short time at the time. It was stated that Bruce refused the position for a candidacy for which was then transferred to Lynch. The conference at which Lynch was determined upon was held this morning. The first general demonstration was made when, on the call of the roll, Virginia was reached, and the name of Mahone was called. A general cheer arose from the main floor and the galleries, interrupting the call for a brief time. Theodore Roevelt, a young New Yorker, who has so suddenly sprung into prominence in the politics of his state, also received marked evidences of recognition when he first rose to speak. When the call was completed, Powell Clayton was the center of observation, as he mounted the chair at the head of the Arkansas delegation, and with a degree of deliberation and outward calm which was scarcely to be expected under the circumstances announced that he was not present when his name was called and he desired to cast his vote for his opponent. The announcement of the result of the ballot for temporary chairman was the signal for a general outburst. The delegates rose, climbed upon their chairs, swung their hats, handkerchiefs canes and umbrellas in the air and cheered lustily, and when it subsided, Mr. Clayton, still with great apparent calmness, moved to make the choice unanimous. About the only other person to prick the foot of observation were when W. G. Donan, of Iowa, presented a voluminous memorial for the Women's Christian Temperance union, and was rewarded by a clapping of gloved hand in a gallery, and when Leslie W. Russell of New York, presented a resolution empowering the committee on resolutions to receive and consider a memorial from the Irish national league of America on the question of the proprietorship of land in the United States or Allen.

THE COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

The committee on resolutions of the republican national convention, met at the Grand Pacific hotel at 8 o'clock this evening, and elected Major Wm. McKinley, of Ohio, chairman, and Wm. Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, secretary. A subcommittee, consisting of Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts; Major W. C. Elam, of Virginia; J. C. Burnes, of Missouri; Judge Elbert, of Colorado and Henry Davis, of Colorado, was appointed who, with the chairman and the secretary mentioned above, will prepare a platform to be submitted to the convention and report to the full committee at 9 a. m. to-morrow.

Major McKinley, chairman of the committee on resolutions, said to-night that it was too early to indicate the points of the platform, but that he intended to make an effort to have a reasonable tariff plank inserted in the resolutions, and would probably be successful. The committee also received and heard statements of delegates of the Knights of Labor and other kindred organizations. They proposed to represent one million workmen. The principles for which they asked recognition were the enforcement of the eight hour law; the repudiated, it caused a decided sensation. It was does; the enforcement of compulsory education rumored last night that there was and the prevention of the importation of contract labor.

THE EDMUNDS CONSULTATION.

The leaders of the Edmunds movement held a consultation in the rooms of George William Curtis to-night, and in the view that they held the balance of power they decided to keep up the fight until either a sufficient number of votes come their way to decide the contest in his favor, or else to give their strength to some one of their liking. Some of the Edmunds men afterward held a consultation with the leaders of the Logan people, to be binding enough to cause them to join hands as against the Blaine people.

SHERMAN WILL BE VOTED FOR.

The Wisconsin men consulted and the name of General Sherman was considered as one which they might at proper time spring on the convention.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR A TEST.

The committee on organization was in session till a late hour to-night. After electing George R. Williams, of Indiana, chairman of the committee, they proceeded to the election of a permanent chairman and secretary of the convention. Hon. Galusha A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, was put in nomination by the friends of Blaine, and J. G. Henderson, of Missouri, by the opposition. Henderson was elected by a vote of 20 to 17.

THE ANXIETY IN WASHINGTON.

The Bread and Butter Brigade Eagerly Watching the Bulletins.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The great interest felt by the government employes in the proceedings of the Chicago convention was plainly manifested today. Very little work was done in any of the departments. The clerks gathered in groups, looking at the bulletins and discussing the outlook, while their desks were generally vacant. Occasionally an employe would be found in his seat, apparently busy with official matters, but a second glance would often disclose the fact that he was figuring on the chances of his favorite candidate. Most of them expressed their preference for Arthur, although in the postoffice department there was a fair shrinkling of ardent Grosham men, and a few persons who rather covertly favored Blaine.

A BLOOMING CANDIDATE.

The postmaster-general was early at his desk, and attended strictly to his official duties throughout the day. During the morning he received a large number of private telegrams. Several telegrams he answered. It was rumored that he was explaining to friends in Chicago the reasons that influences this action in removing an officer in the department who in retaliation had sought to array against the postmaster-general the Grand Army of the Republic. It is said in the department that the official records, if published, would completely justify the action of Postmaster General Gresham in the matter. Paul Vandervort, of Omaha, formerly of the railway mail service, is the official referred to. At the close of office hours Sid Tellers joined General Gresham in his private room in the department, and they discussed the situation while waiting for news from the west. Both officers showed an unswavering loyalty to the candidacy of President Arthur.

ECHOES FROM THE CABINET.

The session of the cabinet during the afternoon was very short, and no official business was transacted. The president was in good spirits and betrayed no anxiety. "In fact," said one of the cabinet, "I do not believe he felt as much concerned in the result of the convention as the members of his cabinet."

THE PRIVATE WIRES.

By which the Candidates are Receiving the News from Chicago.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The special telegraph offices in addition to the regular offices for correspondents furnish the latest bulletins from the Chicago convention to the senate and house. The capitol was buzzing with excited gossip all day, and both houses were very thin, while the corridors were crowded with throngs discussing the convention. Edmunds has a private wire by which he sat frequently to-day, but he will leave tomorrow for a quiet retreat in Virginia to remain until the battle is over. He, Sherman and Hawley were the observed of all observers in the senate whenever they appeared on the floor to-day. To-night Sherman is in consultation with his friends, and the impression is gaining strength here that either he or Edmunds will be nominated. President Arthur received many visitors to-day, and late to-night his wire is telling him every movement at Chicago. He is said to be very hopeful of the nomination to-night, while the Blaine men are evidently depressed.

in convention assembled, hereby declare for the "old ticket," Tilden and Hendricks, and hereby instruct our delegates to use all honorable means in the Atlanta convention to secure a delegation to the Chicago convention pledged to vote for Tilden and Hendricks as long as there is a reasonable probability of their nomination.

Ten delegates and ten alternates were then selected.

LEE INSTRUCTS FOR TILDEN.

ALBANY, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—Lee county appoints John W. Forrester and J. F. Watson as delegates to the convention on the 18th of June, with power to appoint their own alternates. The county instructs for Tilden delegates to the national convention.

MONROE FOR TILDEN.

FORSYTH, June 3.—[Special]—The democratic party of Monroe county met to-day. The meeting was called to order by Captain Mobley, chairman of the county executive committee.

Dr. L. B. Alexander was selected as chairman and J. T. Waterman, secretary.

On motion, a committee of sixteen were appointed to report names of suitable persons as delegates to the state democratic convention and report other business for the meeting.

The committee after some deliberation, reported a resolution denouncing the present protection tariff as a monster of iniquity equally immoral and unjust and more cowardly than highway robbery, favoring a progressive diminution by as rapid a rate as possible, and heartily indorsed the action of our representatives in congress who supported the Morrison bill.

The following are the delegates: R. C. McGaugh, T. B. Cabiniss, J. G. Phinizee, W. H. Bush, W. C. Carley, T. J. Fletcher, J. M. Johnston, J. H. Sutton, B. H. Fallner, J. H. Hooten, B. F. Jordan and C. F. Turner. All have been seen except and they report for Tilden and Hendricks.

THE OLD TICKET AND OHIO PLATFORM.

MADISON, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—The delegates are uninstructed. A resolution was passed favoring the old ticket, the Ohio platform.

The repeal of the internal revenue was passed unanimously.

COWETA A TILDEN COUNTY.

NEWNAN, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—A. D. Freeman, P. H. Brewster, N. O. Banks and John B. Goodwin were sent to the state convention and instructed for Tilden and Hendricks.

CARROLL COUNTY PREFERS TILDEN.

CARROLLTON, June 3.—[Special.]—In the mass meeting to-day Messrs. C. P. Gordon, J. T. Tolbert, D. E. Gow and F. N. Cobb were selected as delegates to the convention which meets on

THE SCENE PHOTOGRAPHED.

Mr. Lodge's Motion to Substitute Lynch for Clayton--The Committee on Address.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The proceedings of to-day, while characterized by great earnestness and keen watchfulness to detect any evidence that the tide was turning in any direction, was not prolific in dramatic incidents for the reason that a large share of the session was occupied by the routine of calling the roll of the states and the election of a temporary chairman. This part of the proceedings was only relieved from monotony by glimpses of personal characteristics and phases of feeling exhibited by the members as they rose one at a time to announce their personal or political preferences for temporary chairman. The first sensational feature of the session was immediately after Chairman Sabin announced the name of Powell Clayton, of Arkansas, as the choice of the committee on organization for temporary chairman of the convention, when Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, rose and moved to substitute the name of John R. Lynch, one of the colored delegates from Mississippi. Though some such action was anticipated, it caused a decided sensation. It was rumored last night that there was a movement on foot looking to the putting forward of the name of B. K. Bruce, of Mississippi, a colored man, who was one of the vice presidents of the last national convention, and who wielded the gavel as chairman for a short time at the request of senator Hoar, permanent chairman, but it was stated that Bruce refused the position, the candidacy for which was then transferred to Lynch. The conference at which Lynch was determined upon was held this morning. The first general demonstration was made when, on the call of the roll, Virginia was reached, and the name of Mahone was called. A general cheer arose from the main floor and the galleries, interrupting the call for a brief time. Theodore Roosevelt, a young New Yorker, who has so suddenly sprung into prominence in the politics of his state, also received marked evidences of recognition when he first rose to speak. When the call was completed, Powell Clayton was the center of observation, as he mounted the chair at the head of the Arkansas delegation, and with a degree of dignified and outward calm which was scarcely to be expected under the circumstances, announced that he was not present when his name was called and he desired to cast his vote for Lynch. The announcement of the result of the ballot for temporary chairman was the signal for a general outburst. The delegates rose, climbed upon their chairs, swung their hats, handkerchiefs, canes and umbrellas in the air and cheered lustily. Mr. Clayton, still with great apparent calmness, moved to make the choice unanimous. About the only other points to prick the foot of observation were when W. G. Brown, of Iowa, presented a voluminous memorial for the Women's Christian Temperance union, and was rewarded by a clapping of gloved hands in the gallery, and when Leslie W. Russell, of New York, presented a resolution empowering the committee on resolutions to receive and consider a memorial from the Irish national league of America on the question of the proprietorship of land in the United States of aliens.

THE COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

The committee on resolutions of the republican national convention, met at the Grand Pacific hotel at 8 o'clock this evening, and elected Major Wm. McKinley, of Ohio, chairman, and Wm. Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, secretary. A sub-committee consisting of Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts; H. H. Baker, of Indiana; George R. Peck, of Kansas; Major W. C. Elam, of Virginia; J. C. Bynum, of Missouri; Judge Elbert, of Colorado and Horace Davis, of Colorado, was appointed who with the chairman and the secretary mentioned above, will prepare a platform to be submitted to the convention and report to the full committee at 9 a. m. to-morrow.

Major McKinley, chairman of the committee on resolutions, said to-night that it was too early to indicate the points of the platform, but that it was intended to make an effort to have a reasonable tariff plank inserted in the resolutions, and would probably be successful. The committee also received and heard statements of delegates of the Knights of Labor and other kindred organizations. They proposed to represent one million workmen, for which they asked recognition were: The enforcement of the eight hour law; the right of labor to organize in the same manner as capital; the enforcement of compulsory education, and the prevention of the importation of contract labor.

THE EDMUNDS CONSULTATION.

The leaders of the Edmunds movement held a consultation in the rooms of George William Curtis to-night, and in the view they held the balance of power they decided to keep up the fight until after a sufficient number of votes come their way to decide the contest in his favor, or else to give their strength to the man of their liking. Some of the Edmunds men afterward held a consultation with the Arthur people and the bond between the two appears to be holding enough to cause them to join hands against the Blaine people.

SHERMAN'S NAME WILL BE VOTED FOR.

The Wisconsin men consulted and the name of General Sherman was considered as one which they might at proper time spring on the convention.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR A TEST.

The committee on organization was in session for a late hour to-night. After electing George B. Williams, of Indiana, chairman of the committee, they proceeded to the election of a permanent chairman and secretary of the convention. Hon. John A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, was put in nomination by the friends of Blaine, and J. G. Anderson, of Missouri, by the opposition. Henderson was elected by a vote of 20 to 17.

THE ANXIETY IN WASHINGTON.

The Bread and Butter Brigade Eagerly Watching the Bulletins.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The great interest felt by government employes in the proceedings of the Chicago convention was plainly manifested today. Very little work was done in any of the departments. The clerks gathered in groups, looking at the bulletins and discussing the outlook, while their desks were generally vacant. Occasionally an employe would be found at his seat, apparently busy with official matters, but a second glance would often disclose the fact that he was figuring on the chances of his favorite candidate. Messrs. G. A. Ramspeck, J. C. Johnson, Dr. J. H. Goss and O. Winningham were elected delegates to the state convention for the purpose of nominating governor and statehouse officers. The delegates to each convention were instructed to select their own alternates.

ROCKDALE FOR UNCLE SAMMY.

CONYERS, June 3.—[Special.]—The Rockdale democratic convention which met to-day in answer to the call of Colonel Glenn, chairman of the executive committee, unanimously elected the following delegates to the state democratic convention, which meets in Atlanta on the 18th: Dr. J. A. Stewart and Judge A. C. McCalla, and Colonels J. C. Barton and H. Y. McCord as alternates.

A resolution expressing the preference of the convention for Tilden and Hendricks was adopted with great enthusiasm.

WALTON FOR TILDEN.

MONROE, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—A large number of the citizens of this county met in the courthouse to-day, with Thomas A. Gibbs in the chair.

Thomas A. Gibbs, George C. Selman, C. G. Nowell and J. E. Nunnally were elected delegates to the state convention.

A resolution indorsing Samuel J. Tilden for president was unanimously passed.

TAYLOR FOR TILDEN.

BUTLER, June 3.—[Special.]—Taylor county selects W. S. Wallace and J. R. Respass to attend the convention in Atlanta, and to go for Tilden and Hendricks.

NEWTON FOR UNCLE SAMMY.

COVINGTON, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—Newton county sends the following delegates to the convention to be held in Atlanta on the 18th inst.: J. G. Lester, L. F. Livingston, T. D. Guinn, G. W. W. Stone, Jr. All for the old tickett, according to instructions of the mass meeting.

Dr. J. J. Dearing was elected chairman of the executive committee for the county.

THE OLD TICKET.

ALBANY, June 3.—[Special.]—The democratic convention of Dougherty county to-day elected delegates to both state conventions as follows:

For the convention on the 18th of June to elect delegates to Chicago: Hon. W. E. Smith and Captain E. L. Wright; to the convention on the 13th of August to nominate governor and statehouse officers, J. W. Walters and J. R. Forrester.

A resolution declaring for Tilden and Hendricks was adopted, though the delegates were uninstructed.

WILKINSON UNINSTRUCTED.

IRWINTON, June 3.—[Special.]—The delegates to the Atlanta convention are: H. T. Cantwell, A. R. Razar; alternates, I. J. Fountain, J. T. Burk. No instructions and no preference.

GWINNETT FOR TILDEN.

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—M. P. King, Moses Martin, T. M. Peeples and W. E. Simmons were to-day elected delegates to the state convention. Each one is solid for Tilden first, last and forever. The convention was, and the county seemed to be, unanimous for Tilden.

WASHINGTON WANTS UNCLE SAMMY.

SANDERSVILLE, June 3. — [Special.] — Messrs. Wright, Pringle, Warthen, Parsons, Hines, Roughton, Holmes and Smith are the delegates chosen to-day to represent Washington county in the Atlanta convention of the 18th inst. No instructions. Seven have been interviewed and say Tilden is the man for the crisis.

Barnes was indorsed for congress.

OGLETHORPE WANTS UNCLE SAMMY.

LEXINGTON, June 3.—[Special.]—The democrats of Oglethorpe county met in convention to-day and appointed the following delegates to the convention to be held in Atlanta on the 18th to elect delegates to the Chicago convention: J. J. C. McMaulin, H. McWhirter, J. T. Oliver, W. C. Birchmere. All of them are strong Tilden men.

Delegates were also appointed to the gubernatorial convention, and instructed for McDaniel for governor and J. C. Reid for attorney general, provided he is in the race.

Resolutions were passed indorsing ex-Governor Smith as candidate for the senate from the 13th district.

REESE AND BARNES FOR CONGRESS.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—At the democratic mass meetings to-day in the counties in the tenth district, Hon. George T. Barnes was unanimously recommended for the nomination for congress. Hon. Seaborn Reese will have no democratic opposition for congress in the eighth district.

Death of Mrs. Shipley.

CONYERS, Ga., June 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Shipley, wife of Mr. John S. Shipley, of this place, died here yesterday evening. She had been sick some time. She was a member of the Primitive Baptist church.

TILDEN WILL RUN.

General Gordon Denies a Statement Now in Circulation.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—[Special.]—General Gordon, in an interview in the Evening Star, denies the statement recently published that he said he had seen a letter which Tilden would send to the New York convention, withdrawing his name from presidential consideration. Gordon says he never saw or heard of such a letter. All efforts to dispose of Tilden burst like a bubble here.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

The Senate Rushing Through Unobjected Business.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—The house passed the bill which prohibits the enclosure of any public land, when the person or corporation making the enclosure has no claim or color of title to the land, and makes it lawful for any person to tear down or demolish any such enclosure when it includes more than 160 acres.

The 12th of June was set apart for the consideration of the electoral count bill.

The bill forfeiting the land grant of the Oregon Central railroad was taken up. The debate which followed was addressed to empty seats on to little knots of members, who assembled to discuss the political situation at Chicago. The bulletin board placed in the members' lobby was the center of attraction, and the significance attaching to the choice of the convention for temporary chairman was the chief topic of conversation. Every dispatch was eagerly awaited, and the chances of the various candidates canvassed in the lobby, on floor and in the cloak rooms. The vote on the passage of the bill stood, yeas 134, nays 22, (no quorum) and the house at 5:50 adjourned.

IN THE SENATE.

In the senate, among the petitions presented, was one by Mr. Brown, from the Georgia medical society of Savannah and the Augusta academy of medicine, and the board of health of Augusta, praying that a reward may be offered by congress for the discovery of the causes of the germ of yellow fever, with the mode of treatment that will prevent or cure the diseases. In connection with this petition, Mr. Brown introduced a bill providing for the offer of a reward of $100,000 to any person who will discover the true cause or germ of yellow fever with any certain means of effecting its destruction or material modification, or who, without discovering the cause or germ of said disease, shall discover a certain and practical mode of effecting its prevention, destruction or material modification.

In accordance with the understanding of yesterday the senate proceeded to the consideration of the calendar cases unobjected to, and disposed of a large number of bills. Among those passed was one granting an annual leave of absence with pay to letter carriers. Amended so as to fix the leave at fifteen days. By half past three the end of the calendar was reached. One hundred and eighteen bills had been taken up, 62 of them passed, one or two postponed. The senate adjourned till Friday. Only about a dozen senators were present and the galleries were bare.

DROWNING OF GEN. BABCOCK.

General Grant's Old Chum Drowned in a Florida Lake.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Private telegrams received in this city and Baltimore this a. m. from Mr. Benjamin, an employee of the light house service, Daytona, Fla., June 2d, via Aston, Fla., announce that General O. E. Babcock, engineer of Fifth Light house district, Levi P. Luckey, his chief clerk (formerly assistant private secretary of President Grant), and Benjamin R. Suter, Washington, D. C., were drowned on Saturday in Mosquito inlet, off the coast of Florida, while superintending the work on the lighthouse being erected at that point. Further private telegram says the casualty occurred yesterday. The body of General Babcock was recovered. Search was instituted for the others, but without avail. The lighthouse board has received no official information on the subject, nor has the adjutant-general of the army.

The Alabama Convention.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 3.—[Special.]—Delegates and candidates to to-morrow's democratic state convention are arriving en masse. A state ticket delegates to the Chicago and congressional nominations are to be made. The hotels are crowded.

Columbia Gossip.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 3.—[Special.]—There were two deaths in Columbia last week—one white and one colored.

Miss Maggie Martin, youngest daughter of the Rev. William Martin, a most estimable young woman, was buried yesterday in the Washington Street Methodist church graveyard. She died Sunday morning after a long and painful sickness.

General Leroy F. Youmans, of this city, is one of the nine candidates for congress from this district. He is one of the most brilliant lawyers in South Carolina and is exceedingly popular. He will make a good run.

The Palmetto Yeoman now publishes a morning and evening edition and takes the associated press dispatches. This amiable little journal is in a prosperous condition and has hundreds of friends and not one enemy.

Columbia is overrun with book agents.

The mad dog scare has not struck Columbia yet this season.

West End Musical.

To-night, at the academy in West End, at 8½ o'clock, most pleasing performances will occur. Piano, silver flute, cornet, guitar, violin, banjo and xylophone, in the hands of skilled artists, will delight the audience and "bring down the house." The xylophone is a rare and queer wooden affair, up, and the music Mr. Bill Withams gets out of it is wonderful. The immitable Dr. Sid Holland will furnish fun for the recreation of all. Aside from this there will be good singing from the Misses Richmond and the Æolean quartette club and Mrs. Stovall and Miss Annie Adair will recite worthily and well. Whitehall street cars pass in front of the academy. The entertainment is for the benefit of the West End Methodist church. A large crowd will attend and be delighted.

A Suicide.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 3.—[Special.]—News reached this city that Downing Johnson, who lived near Hilliar's store, Marshall county, Ala., committed suicide by shooting himself with a gun last Sunday morning. He had a difficulty with his wife and she left him and went with their child to her mother's. He followed her the next day and called for her to bring out the child, which she did. He kissed it and stepped off a short distance and shot himself. The parties are both respectably connected.

A Big Sale in Anniston.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 3.—[Special.]—The Anniston manufacturing company have sold their lots and various real estate about Anniston, exclusive of furnaces, rolling and cotton mills, to a land syndicate of northern and southern capitalists for one million and a half dollars. D. F. Barker, of the Anniston bank, a former Mobilean, is largely interested in the new organization.

Mills Shutting Down.

PETERSBURG, Va., June 3.—In consequence of the dullness of trade and the low prices of goods, Ettrycks, Mattooca, Batters and Swift creek manufacturing companies have decided to run their mills only on half time. These are four of the largest cotton factories here, and give employment to several h undred hands.

The Augusta Bank Burglar.

NEW YORK, June, 3.—Charles Williams, alias "Rufe" Minor, the noted bank burglar, who was arrested by the police of this city, was handed over to Deputy Sheriff Foute, of Georgia, to-day.

They Favor Tilden.

TROY, N. Y., June 3.—All the delegates to the state democratic convention from Renzlaer county, nine in number, favor Tilden.

THE MACON TOURNAMENT.

Pool Selling last Night and Other Matters of Interest--Gossip of the Day.

Pools were sold on the Macon walking matches the big bonanza last night. Owing to the fact however that a complete list of the walkers could not be secured the betting was not very spirited. There was a very general desire to put up money, but as it was a matter of uncertainty who would start, only a few pools

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported in the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The share market opened weak and prices declined ⅜ to 1¼ per cent. Readwas 1 per cent lower. This decline was caused by unfavorable reports which were subsequently denied, and prices rose ½ to 2¼ per cent, the latter for Michigan Central. Near midday prices ran off fractionally but soon recovered. Subsequently a weaker feeling prevailed and a general decline took place. This was succeeded by good buying and a buoyant tone, some shares advancing to the best figures of the day. In the afternoon there were general realizations and the bears made attacks on the market resulting in a decline of 1¾ to 2¼ per cent. At the clote there was a rally of ½ to ¾ per cent in some shares, but the market left off weak. Compared with last night's close, prices are 2 per cent lower for Central Pacific; 1¾ for Louisville and Nashville and Missouri Pacific; 1¾ for Omaha preferred; 1¼ for New York Central, and 1¾ for Union Pacific, while Reading was 1 per cent higher. The other changes were less than 1 per cent. Sales 465,000 shares.

THE COTTON MARKETS.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
ATLANTA, June 3, 1884.

New York—The cotton market continued dull throughout the day, and trading in futures was brought down to minimum figures—in fact, the market has been almost lifeless for some days past, and the prevailing feeling at present indicates no immediate improvement in the condition of the market. Spots steady; middling 11 9-16c.

Net receipts for three days to 6,013 bales, against 12,889 bales last year; exports 8,208 bales; last year 26,817 bales; 464,271 bales; last year 490,349 bales.

Below we give the opening and closing quotations of cotton futures in New York to-day:

	OPENED.	CLOSED.
June	11.55@		June	11.55@
July	11.72@		July	11.70@
August	11.84@		August	11.84@
September	11.66@		September	11.65@
October	11.18@11.19		October	11.17@
November	10.95@10.98		November	10.95@
December	10.94@		December	10.94@
January	11.02@		January	11.02@
February	@		February	11.10@

Closed dull; sales 52,000 bales.

Local—Cotton market quiet; little doing and little offering. We quote spots as follows: Good middling 11¾c; middling 11¼c; strict low middling 11¼c; low middling 11c; strict good ordinary 10⅝c; tinges 11¼c; stains 9¼@9⅝c.

NEW YORK, June 3—The Post's cotton market report says: Future deliveries are very quiet. Prices fell 2@3-100, recovered most of the decline and were sold at the third call: August 11.84, September 11.65, October 11.18; bids of 11.55 for June, 11.70 for July and 10.98 for November and December were refused. The course of the market to-morrow will in a great measure depend upon the reopening at Liverpool. The National cotton exchange makes the movement on inland in April to have been 44,980 bales, against 25,475 bales in 1883 and 23,300 bales in 1882; and deliveries to northern spinners in eight months 1,372,412 bales, against 1,515,883 bales in 1883 and 1,424,682 bales in 1882. Futures closed dull 1@2-100 lower than yesterday.

THE DAY'S DOINGS.

CHRONICLE OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS ABOUT TOWN.

Gossip of the Gate City, and Points Picked Up Here and There Events Discussed on the Street Corners and About the Curbstones—What the Scribes Find to Write Up.

A West End bachelor makes up biscuit with butter.

The hot days and cold nights threaten some sickness.

The school children are all jubilant over the near approach of the vacation season.

Atlanta's streets are in a very muchly tumbled up condition on account of improvements in numerous quarters.

Atlanta is now dividing her interest between the national republican convention and the Macon walking match.

Three hundred men are now at work on the Kimball house and the building is a perfect hive of busy workmen.

Cherries, gooseberries, peaches and melons are causing worse financial panics in town than the failure of James's bank.

Improvements are contemplated on the Metropolitan street car line that will result in keeping the cars on the tracks.

Subpœnas are being sent out for witnesses to attend the criminal trials in the superior court to begin on the 16th instant.

An incubator man has struck the city, and there is a prospect that we will now be able to have spring chickens all the year round.

Advices have been received that work upon the Bon Hill statue is progressing favorably and the noble work will soon be completed.

The library excursion train Saturday to Macon via the Central railroad will leave and arrive at the union passenger depot in this city.

There is trouble brewing in one of the life insurance clubs of the city. The female treasurer has been buying a silk dress and an alligator kin satchel.

At Trinity church the meetings have so increased as to attendance that it was found necessary to remove from the lecture room to the auditorium for the evening service.

Mrs. Emma Glover, wife of Patrolman Joseph I. Glover died at her residence on Rawson street yesterday morning at nine o'clock. Mrs. Glover had been sick only a few days. She will be buried this afternoon from her late home.

Slooman White, a negro man, was yesterday arrested upon a warrant charging him with receiving stolen goods. White, it is alleged, acted as a receiver for John Terrell, who now occupies a cell in the city prison, charged with burglary and attempted arson.

SELLING A LIVERY STABLE.

Mr Zach Taylor's Rolling Stock and Horses Under the Hammer Yesterday.

Mr. Zach Taylor's livery stable was sold at auction yesterday. The sale began at two o'clock and closed at six, but everything was not disposed of. The sale took place at the stable, corner Hunter and Forsyth streets and was attended by a large crowd. Saddle horses, buggy horses, carriage horses, buggies carriages and harness were sold. The horses all brought their full value and sold rapidly. The harness and saddles did not go off so well, while the buggies went for good prices. The carriages sold very cheap. One carriage for which Mr. Taylor gave $1,200, brought only $330. Mr. Taylor sold his stock because he is going out of business for the present. He has a fine stable in Anniston, Ala., and will play between Atlanta and Anniston this summer, but will make Atlanta his home. This fall he will open again in Atlanta. For the first time in years Atlanta has no Taylor in the livery business.

For the first time in years Atlanta has no Taylor in the livery business.

HE GETS HOME SICK.

Ben Childs, the Man Who Shot Jack Donnally, Wants to Come Back.

Yesterday one of Ben Child's friends received a letter from him asking about Donnally's condition and expressing a desire to return to Atlanta, provided he could secure an immediate investigation. The person who received the letter refused to say where it came from, but said that he intended to write Child's to come back the first of the present week or the first of next week. It is believed in police circles that Childs is in Chattanooga. He did not leave Atlanta until Monday morning and boarded the Western and Atlantic passenger train under the carshed at 7 o'clock that morning. Chief Connolly was present at the time, but as no demand for Childs's arrest had been made, and as he did not know him, Childs had no difficulty in getting away. Donnally was much better yesterday and was considered out of danger. His wound has begun to heal and his physician thinks that he will be able to get out in a few days. The difficulty between the two men is regretted very much by their friends, and every effort is being made to effect an amicable adjustment of the affair. No warrant has yet been issued for Childs.

EALTHY FOR HER ROOSTS.

Negro Superstition in Henry County and How It Worketh Out Good.

The colored citizens of Henry county, so report says, are having a good deal of trouble with the ghost of Leonidas Johnson, who was hung at McDonough two weeks ago. A large number say they have seen him as he last appeared singing the old familiar couplet—

"This is the way I long have sought,
And mourned because I found it not."

In the meantime the farmers of the county are reaping profits from the superstition. Nearly all the corn cribs and chicken roosts are supplied with a short piece of the rope that hung the culprit and one enterprising citizen has the fellow's cap raised high on a pole in the middle of his watermelon patch. On the day Johnson was hung there was a very great scramble for pieces of the rope to be used in keeping thieves out of cribs.

"I tell you," said a Henry county man, "there is no use in talking about it. You can't get a negro to go around where it is reported a piece of that rope exists. Just give it out that a piece of the rope that hung Leonidas Johnson is in your corn crib and your corn will not be disturbed. I expect to see a large decrease in crime in Henry county this year. I tell you a hanging is a healthy thing for the hen roosts."

A FARM HOUSE ON FIRE.

A Bright Blaze in a Direction Northeast of Atlanta.

Yesterday morning about one o'clock a printer who had been out on the roof of the Constitution building taking a moment's whiff of fresh air, called attention to a bright blaze at a point northeast of the city, and apparently four or five miles out. The fire was burning rapidly and sent up a big column of flame and smoke. A CONSTITUTION man started at once for the scene, but before he reached the locality the fire had died down and after wandering around in the darkness for an hour or two, the scribe drove back to the city considerably crestfallen. Yesterday it was ascertained that the burning house was the property of Major Jerome Deaves, who lives about a mile and a half beyond north Atlanta. Lately the major has erected a new house and his old residence, a four room framed cottage, was turned over to a family of tenants named Lowery. About twelve o'clock night before last the members of the family were awakened by the cracking of the fire and escaped to the outside just as the burning roof fell in. They saved nothing whatever, and even narrowly escaped a frightful cremation. A moment later and they would have been lost in the fire. A very general report was current in the neighborhood yesterday that the fire was the work of an incendiary, but there was no evidence or reasonable cause to support such a theory beyond the unusual hour at which the fire occurred and the rapidity at which it progressed.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

Isaac Carr, an Old Negro Man, Drops Dead While at the Table.

Ike Carr, an old negro man who resided on Hull street, near the city limits, dropped dead yesterday evening about six o'clock. Carr was quite old, and had been living with his son, who is a drayman, for several months. He appeared to be quite healthy, and had not performed a good day's work within the past week. Yesterday afternoon he cut a pile of wood, and while quite warm sat down on the steps, when a good breeze struck him until he became thoroughly chilled. About six o'clock he ate some supper, and as he arose from the table stumbled and fell. He was picked up and placed on a bed by his son, and a physician was sent for. Dr. Howard responded, but when he reached the old man he was dead. His death was the result of heart disease, and a burial certificate was given. The old man was about sixty five years of age.

A HAPPY UNION.

Marriage of Mr. Francis Gillespie and Miss Janie E. Maher.

The church of St. Peter and Paul was the scene yesterday of a happy marriage. The contracting parties were Mr. Francis Gillespie and Miss Janie E. Maher, daughter of Mr. M. E. Maher. The ceremony occurred at eight o'clock, Rev. P. H. McMahon officiating. The attendants were as follows: Mr. Pat Gillespie with Miss Fannie Gillespie, Mr. James Lynch with Miss Mattie Waters, Mr. Thomas F. Hastings with Miss Nellie Guilfoile.

The ceremony was very beautiful and impressive, and at its conclusion the bridal party proceeded to the residence of Mr. M. E. Maher, 171 Mangum street, where a magnificent dinner was served, and where a reception was tendered. In the afternoon the bride and groom proceeded to their home, 150 Hayne street.

The bridal presents were numerous and handsome, and were as follows:

Pickle stand, Mrs. Hitchens; silver butter dish, Miss Mattie Waters; silver butter dish, Mr. James Lynch; imap, Mr. C. Gillespie; set of silver, Mr. P. Gillespie; pair castor, Mrs. Ann F. Acton; 1 set of china, Hugh Anglins; vase, Miss Lizzie Farley; silver fruit stand, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Goodman; silver card receiver, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Nelson; silver berry dish, Mr. and Mrs. Tilghman; silver berry dish, Mrs. Kelley; silver card receiver, Miss Minnie Gillespie; 2 lace handkerchiefs, Miss Bessie Hammond; handsome set of parlor furniture, Mr. and Mrs. Maher; dining room and kitchen furniture, Mrs. Pat Gillespie; 2 pair handsome vases, Mrs. Connall; handsome cut glass and silver pitcher, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson; handsome stand of flowers, Mrs. Ebering; set of napkin rings, C. C. Croft; 1 spirit lamp, Mrs. K. Dethl; silver butter dish, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine; warp stand, Rosy Maher; clock, F. F. Hastings; violet stand, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ryan; salt and pepper stand, Mrs. P. Lynch; pin cushion, Mrs. Mary Maher; morocco album, Mrs. James Walsh; set of china, Mrs. M. E. Maher.

The young people have many friends who wish them much happiness.

MR. ARCH ORME STILL ALIVE.

His Pulse Goes Down Yesterday and He Gets Quite Weak--No Statement.

Arch Orme was quite low late yesterday evening, but rallied about 8 o'clock last night and was resting comfortably at midnight. His physician still declines to assert an opinion as to the result of the wound, but many of Mr. Orme's friends firmly believe that he will pull through all right and live a long life. He was quite easy yesterday morning but about noon his pulse began to grow slower and slower and by five o'clock he was exceedingly weak. He began reviving soon after dark and again inspired his friends with hope for his recovery. He bears his pain without a murmur and gives those about him very little trouble. He converses pleasantly with those about his bedside and when awake and silent gives himself up to deep and prolonged study. Dr. Frank Holland has been with Mr. Orme ever since he was brought to the city, and watches him with great care. There was a strong tie of friendship between the two gentlemen and Mr. Orme seems perfectly satisfied when Dr. Holland is with him. Mr. Orme's mother watches him with that devotion a mother only can manifest. His father has not yet reached Atlanta. He is quite old and has been sick for some weeks past and the news of his son's trouble and attempted self-destruction has been too much for him.

The railroad accountants have about completed their work, but they decline to make any statement. Mr. Glascock, of the Richmond and Danville road, has completed his examination and has gone home. He refused to make any statement before he left. Mr. Bythwood has also left the city. The accountants will each make a statement to their own roads but the impression prevails that those statements will remain a matter of secrecy. None of them would deny that he was short, and the indications are that the shortage is about $17,000. Mr. Orme has not changed his mind in regard to making a statement, and Mr. Ballard's letter is still sealed. His friends openly denied yesterday the statement that he had gambled. Mr. Alex Thweatt has been appointed temporary ticket agent, and will probably be tendered the position permanently.

West Side Lots.

Elmore & Krouse, real estate agents, yesterday sold at public outcry the Leach property, located on West Hunter street near the western limits of the city. The property had been divided into one hundred lots, which were of uniform size being 40x100 feet. A large crowd was out and the sale began at 12 o'clock and ended at 3:30 so spirited was the bidding. Quite a number of the lots were purchased by nonresidents. Among the resident buyers were Ed Cahn, T. N. Chase, J. W. Starnes, W. J. Carr and E. M. Martin. The sale averaged about $90. An elegant dinner was served in the grove at noon.

Stealing Mr. Adair's Cow.

Yesterday morning a thief entered Mr. Green B. Adair's premises on Washington street and stole a valuable cow. The cow was in the stable and the door was locked, and in order to get her out the thief was compelled to unlock the door. This he did, and after driving the cow out he again locked the door.

The Auction Sale To-day.

Sam'l W. Goode's auction sale of lots on Decatur street and the Boulevard, Fitzgerald and Todd streets, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, will be well attended by those wishing a nice, convenient lot for a home or for rent. The neighborhood is good, the street cars run near them, and the paved sidewalks and rubble stone pavement on Decatur street will make a walk or drive to the center of the city easy and pleasant. Some of the most prominent business men have recently invested in this section and they know where to look for profit. Messrs. Joel Hurt, Jno. M. Hill, C. P. Barker, L. B. Nelson and others own lots and houses there. The increasing number of wages-men and women in the factories and shops, and stores near by, keep up a corresponding demand for lots and houses. Hence this sale will meet the wishes of purchasers. Free ride on the Decatur street car line at 3:30 and 3:45 p m to-day.

Just Opened.

THE GRAND INQUEST.

AN IMPORTANT SERIES OF SUGGESTIONS ON LOCAL SUBJECTS.

The County Institutions Are All in Admirable Order—A Boom for Good County Roads—Lifting the Liquor Tax—Praise for the Railroad Commission—Timely Topics.

The general presentments of the Fulton county grand jury have been returned into court, and are of such excellence and importance that they deserve more than passing notice. The subjects treated of are all live and pertinent ones, and the suggestions under the several heads will be recognized as wise and forcible.

A running summary of the document will indicate its contents.

THE EX-OFFICIO J. P.'S.

The grand jury recommended and the following have been appointed notaries public and ex-officio justices of the peace:

1109th district.....Seaborn Jones.
1038th district.....George H. Tanner.
1254th district.....John Rhea.
722d district.....W. C. Maddox.
1378th district.....James M. Moore.
580th district.....H. L. Culberson.

The above are excellent appointments and the gentlemen named will give dignity and character to our courts of minor judicature.

THE COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

was selected and appointed and is composed of the following gentlemen:

Malcolm Johnston, Adam S. Pool and R. B. Jett, whose terms will expire April 1st, 1886; E. A. Donohue and Moses Wood, whose terms will expire April 1st, 1888.

THE COUNTY INSTITUTIONS.

The jury report, having visited the several county institutions. The jail was found in good order, the prisoners well cared for and fed upon plenty and reasonably good and nutritious food. They found the almshouse well kept and the inmates seemingly well contented. The buildings are declared to be mere shanties, sufficient perhaps for summer shelter, but wholly inadequate for winter. They recommended new buildings, but first suggest that the 500 acres now owned be sold and 50 acres purchased near enough to the city to admit of frequent visits from humane and believolent persons who would be glad to contribute to the comfort of these unfortunate inmates. The chaingang is well looked after and the work admirably done, but the jury thinks no work should be done by the chaingang in the city limits except for the public good. All the penitentiary convict camps in the county are found all right and well conditioned. Rev. Francis Joseph, colored, was appointed chaplain for the camps, having already done good service in them gratuitously.

THE COUNTY ROADS.

The grand jury are very emphatic and very elaborate in their discussion of the necessity and value to the county of having a perfect system of county highways. They recommend that the county commissioners should appropriate every dollar that can be spared for the improvement of the roads, and that they be authorized to issue $50,000 of bonds each year for five years, at such rate of interest as will make them available, to macademize all the principal thoroughfares of the county to the lines of the adjoining counties. They think this work is urgently needed, and should be immediately prosecuted.

TWO IMPORTANT BRIDGES.

The grand jury recommended that the county commissioners at once require the Richmond and Danville railway company to build a good wagon bridge over their line of road at the Decatur street crossing. The place is now a veritable deathtrap, and this work is urged to be at once consummated. They also recommend that the Belt Line company be required to erect a similar bridge over their line where it crosses Howell's mills road.

THE COUNTY COURTHOUSE O. K.

The jury have caused a careful inspection to be made of the courthouse by competent judges and say they are glad to report that the building is not only safe but is one of the soundest and best constructed buildings in the county. The few small cracks showing in the plastering are only such as are incident to ordinary shrinkage and do not in any way weaken the building.

SEVERAL GRIEVANCES.

The jury recommended that the reckless driving of drays and wagons upon the streets be punished by the heaviest penalties. They have secured competent chemists to analyze food products offered for sale in the city and report to the next grand jury. Samples left with Dr. Amos Fox will be given proper attention. They also recommend that our representatives in the legislature secure the passage of an iron-clad enforceable vagrant law. They commend the judges who are enforcing rigidly the high penalties of the laws against gambling and the keeping of lewd and disorderly houses.

THE LIQUOR LICENSE.

They recommend to the authorities of the city of Atlanta that the tax upon retail liquor dealers be raised to the sum of $1,000 per annum.

A HOUSE OF CORRECTION.

The jury amplify upon the cost of prosecuting juvenile offenders and the dangers of keeping them in confinement among hardened criminals. They demand that a house of correction be established for the holding and disciplining of this class of delinquents, and recommend its early erection.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

"This grand jury unqualifiedly endorse the presentments of the late grand jury of the county of Dougherty as to the great services rendered the whole people of the state by our railroad commissioners. Their task has certainly been a most responsible one; their duties of the most intricate character. Under their administration unjustly discriminative freight tariff have been made impossible in our local transportation. We hope the legislature of Georgia will entertain no proposition to abridge the powers of the railroad commission. This unsolicited reference is made to this honorable, just and fearless body of men, who have accomplished so much for Georgia."

THE STOCK LAW.

They declare that the operations of the stock law in this county, wherever tried, has been satisfactory, its enforcement free from litigation, and it has resulted in great benefit to all classes and in great improvement in the the character of the stock kept in those districts. The universal adoption in the county would prove of great benefit to our citizens.

THE KIMBALL HOUSE.

In view of the great importance and value of the early completion of the Kimball house and of the fact that during its erection the owners can derive no revenue therefrom, the grand jury recommended to the city and county authorities that city and county taxes on the lot be suspended for the present year.

Spot Cash! Spot Cash!
D. H. Dougherty.

Offers you an opportunity to buy dress goods and silks cheaper now than ever.

TAKE NOTICE.

We are underselling any house in this market. These are not idle words. We have facts to prove our assertion. D. H. Dougherty, Spot Cash House, 39 and 41 Peachtree.

HOT SHOT.

And plenty of it in the bombardment of prices this week at the Spot Cash House. A special attack is made on Table Linens, Towels and Napkins, of which we have a very large variety, Grape Shot and Canister in figured Lawns. There will be great slaughter in prices of these, and when we come to Shoes we propose to turn not only all our guns and cannons, but the whole fort to the destruction of the ruinously high prices that these have been sold at. We bought them with this view and customers all get the benefit.

D. H. DOUGHERTY.

To the Highest Bidder

Will be sold the lots on Decatur street and the Boulevard by Sam'l W. Goode, at 4 o'clock to-day.

THE AUSTELL CASE.

It Will Go to the Superior Court by Consent of the Parties.

Yesterday the decks were cleared in the court of ordinary for a lengthy and exciting contest over the guardianship of Alfred Austell, Jr., the wealthy six-year old son of the late Banker Austell. This was to be upon the motion of Mrs. F. C. Austell, the mother of the young heir, to set aside the judgment of the ordinary appointing Mr. James Swann guardian of the person and property of Alfred Austell, on the grounds following:

First. Because, as the infant had a mother living, and she, by law, was the natural guardian of the person of the infant on the death of the father, the court of ordinary had no power or jurisdiction to appoint a guardian of the person of the infant. Second. Because Mrs. Austell, the mother and natural guardian, was not served with notice of the proceedings. Third. Because the appointee continued to debar her from knowledge of the purposes of his proceedings and of the proceedings themselves. Fourth. Because at the time of the application the appointee was a resident of New York, but stated in his application that he was a resident of Fulton county. Fifth. Because the appointee is being both executor of the will of Alfred Austell, Sr., and guardian of Alfred Austell, Jr., occupies inconsistent cases."

The defendant yesterday filed a general denial, except confessing that he was a resident of New York at the time of appointment, and the case by consent was entered appealed to the next superior court, it being evident that whatever the decission of the ordinary, it would be appealed by the losing side.

There is every indication that when the case comes on for a hearing the contest will be a most interesting one, the mother being determined to secure if possible the guardianship of her child while the present legal guardian will endeavor to uphold his appointment on the ground that it is better and safer that his property and interests should be managed by one having skill and experience in business affairs of such magnitude. The estate of the young heir, by the time of his majority, is likely to be worth anywhere between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

The Telephone at Decatur.

Yesterday the list of fifteen subscribers in Decatur to the Atlanta telephone exchange was completed, and an exchange for Decatur was guaranteed. By that Atlanta will be put in direct communication with Decatur for free telephonic service. This is a very decided step forward for the exchange here, and gives fifteen new subscribers, making the total list now about 440. The managers of the exchange say they will run the list to 500 in a short time. The Decatur exchange will be in working order in about a month.

On Sunday last the wires were connected with a telegraph wire which in turn was connected with the Montgomery exchange and an hour or two's conversation was had between the two cities, a distance of 176 miles. It was easy to recognize the voice of an acquaintance.

A toll station is soon to be put at Marietta and connected with Atlanta.

A BAKER UNDONE.

A Fire Burnt Out His Contract as Well as His Berth.

In the superior court yesterday, before Judge Hammond, was heard the case of Richard W. Edwards vs. Frank E. Block. Edwards alleged that he was a baker by trade and came to Atlanta at the request of Mr. Block; that he entered into contract with the latter to work for one year at a weekly salary of $25; that soon after the fire of January 20th, 1882, when Block's factory and bakery was burned down, he was discharged by Block and only received his wages until that time. In consequence of this wrongful discharge he suffered great loss of time and money, was compelled to take work at insufficient wages, when to accommodate Block he had previously refused handsome offers to go to San Francisco. He sued for the recovery of his wages under the contract. Mr. Block denied owing the money, and claimed that it was a part of his contract with Edwards that, in the event of the destruction of the bakery by fire, the contract was to end at once. The proof was submitted to the jury and the case fully argued. The jury, after a short deliberation, found in favor of Block, upon the ground that the fire terminated the contract.

The College Fair.

The fair was well attended last night, and everybody was happy.

The ice cream department was patronized liberally.

The dancing was the big attraction and the music was excellent.

Mr. Cheshire's friends were out in full force and several dollars were dropped into his box. The pedestrian believes he will walk away with the pitcher.

The walking match between the young ladies takes place Monday night. It will be a go-as-you-please and the walkers will be selected to-day.

Miss Penny's friends gave her many votes for the handsome necklace. The contest will close Friday.

This is the season to buy goods cheap in New York. My resident buyer, always on time when bargains are to be had, shipped me quantities of goods last week at most wonderfully low prices. I have thrown them on my counters marked low, very low. If you will call this week you will convince yourself that they are very cheap. D. H. Dougherty, Spot Cash House, 39 and 41 Peachtree.

The Panic and Its Consequences

Having forced New York merchants to unload, my resident buyer bought and shipped me huge quantities of shoes that I have marked so low that an inspection will sell them to you. Call and be convinced. D. H. Dougherty, Spot Cash House.

The recent great bargains secured by my resident New York buyer in the tumble of prices incident to the panic has demonstrated the value of having a man in market all the time. He was there when the wave struck and scooped all summer seasonable goods he could get from embarrassed houses. I have received from him White Dotted and Figured Swiss, Tinted Mulls, Plain and Plaid Nansooks, Linens, Shoes, Gloves and other lines that I shall offer bargains on this week such as I have never offered before and thinking people will take advantage of the situation and buy for spot cash the cheapest priced goods of the season.

D. H. DOUGHERTY,

CHEERS FOR BLAINE.

An Enthusiastic Scene Witnessed in the Chicago Convention.

A PRETTY SPEECH FOR GEN. SHERMAN

Which Exploded Too Soon for the Benefit of Another.

THE ORGANIZATION YET INCOMPLETE

And an Adjournment Taken Until To-day.

FIRST BALLOT TO BE REACHED TO-DAY.

CHICAGO, June 4.—[Special.]—Think of thirteen thousand people under one roof—a sea of faces. Distinct here but nebulous back yonder, sparkling with opera glasses that shine as the sunbeams catch them. There is resonant music that seems to be lost in the vast space and goes pulsing about at random. To the left and right are private boxes, resplendent with silks, feathers and jewels. Prominent among the occupants of these is George M. Pullman and family. To the rear is the stage with 1,500 dignitaries blended into a mass of side whiskers and bald heads, with here and there a gleam of red noses. In sloping seats from the stage sit the press. The masters of the profession are here eight hundred strong, grouped about desks in chatty and congenial clumps, writing, dictating or gossiping. To the front are the delegates, arranged by states, and sitting under bare poles, the banners having been stripped off that they might not obstruct the view.

CATCHING THE DELEGATES ON THE FLY.

As the delegates enter the hall they file just beyond my desk and turn into their aisle. They come in early this morning, and with anxious eager faces, and among the first is a chunky man with a large head and small features, brown hair, blue eyes and sallow face—Ben Harrison—a leading dark horse. Senator Mahone follows, pallid, his lustreless hair reaching to his shoulders, a huge yellow rose on his breast, responding with quick theatrical gesture to the applause that greets him. Picking his way carefully comes the "blindman eloquent"—West of Ohio—who ran for governor on a communist platform. The thoroughbred youngster on whose arm he leans is Foraker, who was beaten by Hoadly. Senator Hoar, with his gray hair escaping from under his felt hat recalls Horace Greeley, as he rolls carelessly along. The New York delegation, 76 strong, is greeted with cheers as it enters. At the head is George Willliam Curtis, the gifted fraud, who after denouncing office-holders for interferring with politics, yesterday urged the election of a negro office-holder as chairman of the convention. The scholarly young fellow with eye-glasses and boyish face at his left is Roosevelt—a young Harvard graduate—who has shown amazing capacity in the New York assembly and is even now spoken of for the vice-presidency, and the most promising figure in the convention. The Georgia delegation files to its seat without exciting applause, the crowd probably not recognizing the commanding figure of John E. Bryant. In the South Carolina delegation I noted Ed Blodgett. In the Mississippi delegation Middlebrooks, formerly a colored politician of Bartow county; and William Walter Phelps—slender and elegant—filled me with remorse as I thought of the atrocious picture we printed of him two weeks ago; and Henry Cabet Lodge, of Massachusetts, the young Jewish-looking fighter who conducted the fight against Butler last year, chipped past with a nervous step; and so on through the list. One missed the faces of Conkling, Garfield, Cameron, Logan, and other giants who figured in the convention of 1880, and concluded that this was rather a meeting of smart politicians. Steve French, Mike Cregan and Johnny O'Brien file past, as I write, ambitious young fellows rather than real leaders.

The convention went to work with a will, the California delegation plumping in a resolution pledging every delegate to support the nominee of the convention. This was evidently aimed at the reformers, and when the speaker alluded to the editor of a great periodical as a probable bolter, meaning Curtis, the shouts were deafening and an ugly fight was averted by the withdrawal of this resolution.

BLAINE SPOILS A PRETTY PLAN.

A significant feature of the address of the permanent president was the storm aroused by the allusion to Blaine. Mr. Henderson is a W. T. Sherman man, and after consultation with Geo. Wm. Curtis and Murat Halstead, had agreed to point his speech into an allusion to each candidate, leading up carefully to General Sherman as the climax, when by a few inspiring sentences it was hoped to fire the old war sentiment and sweep the convention off its feet, and thus start the Sherman boom. Everything worked well for the scheme. The allusion to each candidate brought moderate applause. At length Blaine was reached. As the words "whose genius challenges the admiration of mankind" fell from the president's lips, a most remarkable scene ensued. The California delegates mounted their chairs and waved their white banners. The northwestern delegations responded with a will. Pennsylvania came up with terrific yells. The bulk of the New York delegation followed. The galleries caught the infection and a sea of kerchiefs and hats rose and fell against the outer walls. The press gang—nearly 1,000 strong—mounted its tables and hats, papers and canes went into the air. Even the dignitaries of the stage lost their heads, and joined in the universal yell. As far as the eyes could see the tumult of hats, umbrellas, canes, anything that one could saw the air with was extended.
